

Fulton's Tax Rate Is Fixed at $1.85, Same as Last Year

Old Rate Adopted After Vigorous Protest of Citizens, Who Favored Reduction This Year.

BUSINESS PARALYZED BY RATE, THEY CLAIM

Reduction Impossible Due to Possible Deficit of $200,000, Commission
Members Assert.

Fulton county property owners
next year must pay taxes at the same rate as levied this year—$1.85 on the $100.

This was established Wednesday afternoon when the county commission fixed the tax rate for general purposes at $1 on the $100. In addition, property owners must pay a district school tax of 75 cents on the $100, as levied by the school board, and a tax of 10 cents for general school maintenance. The 75 cents tax levy applies only to property which does not lie in Atlanta, East Point and College Park, since these municipalities maintain their own school systems.

The old rate was continued after a score or more of prominent Atlantanians voiced an appeal for a reduction in taxes. They contended that the business of city and county was paralyzed as a result of the high tax rate, and that the "burden was an unjust one." Among the speakers were John M. Slaton, Claude Ashley and Benjamin D. Watkins.

Following the extended discussion
on the subject of reducing the rate,
the county school board asked the commission to raise the tax rate 15 cents. The petition explained that revenues from the levy of 5 cents
would be used in meeting a deficit of approximately $40,000 and that the
revenues from the levy of 10 cents
would be devoted to the erection of a new county high school building.

After deliberation, the request for the 5-cent levy was struck from the petition, and a levy of 10 cents was made for maintenance of schools. A greater portion of the money obtained from the special levy will be used in building the new Fulton High school, it was said. A committee from the school board told the commission that the present building was a "fire trap" and wholly inadequate
to care for the large enrollment.

Paul S. Etheridge and Verlyn B.
Moore, of the commission, were appointed to investigate a probable site for the new school. At present no plans have been made, but members of the board declare they must have the new building before the next school term opens.

In the numerous appeals for decrease in taxes, it was declared that Atlanta business was being paralyzed, and that it was impossible to buy real estate in the city as an investment, due to the heavy tax rate.
Incidents were cited where large investors have refused to place their money in property here, going instead to Florida and other southern sections.

Mr. Slaton declared that Fulton county taxes were greater than those of any other county in the state, and made a strong appeal for a decrease.
He declared that business was being paralyzed and many were becoming discouraged under the "burden."

"Gentlemen," he said, "you say you have a deficit of nearly $200,000 facing you. Then what are you going to do with that $200,000 which will come into the treasury as a result of the installation of the salary system?"

Commissioner Charles G. Turner at this point declared that the "$200,000 would never materialize," but gave no explanation. It was indicated during the meeting, however, that the receipts and disbursements of the various county offices would about balance for the first year.

Business Suffering
Claude Ashley made a short talk before the commissioners, citing the fact that business was suffering on account of the heavy tax levies in Fulton county. He brought out the fact that high tax rates caused high rents, and as a result hundreds of business buildings in various parts of Atlanta were standing vacant.

"There was a time," Mr. Ashley declared, "when a 'for rent' sign on Forrest avenue was something exceeding rare. Today the entire street is lined with vacant buildings, and Fulton county's high tax rate is responsible."

Mr. Watkins made the suggestion to the board that it carry over a part of the deficit until next year, and in this way make it possible to decrease
the tax rate. Commissioner Paul S.
Etheridge replied to Mr. Watkins' suggestion by explaining that the deficit had been carried over from year to year and that each year, instead of decreasing, it was increasing.
Mr. Watkins also cited the fact that

LA FOLLETTE SEEN AS VITAL FACTOR REST OF CAMPAIGN

After Apathetic Start, Independent Candidate Has Picked Up Speed and Is Worrying Politicians.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, September 17.—Here are some facts from hardboiled sources upon which to cogitate while awaiting the opening of Senator La Follette's speaking campaign at Madison Square Garden, Thursday night:
1. Chairman Clem Shaver, of the democratic national committee, says:
First, if the election were held now,
it would be thrown into congress;
second, La Follette has at least 70
electoral votes; third, 700,000 German votes in Illinois will swing that state to the independent ticket.

California in Danger.
2. Two well-informed politicians in the Coolidge official circle have said
within the last 24 hours that California is in an extremely precarious situation, due partly to La Follette strength and partly to sabotage by Johnson forces, who are trying to get control of the state organization again.

3. Senator Spencer, of Missouri, regular republican, said Wednesday that a number of Missouri Germans will vote for La Follette, but that the state will be safe for Coolidge because he will get support from democrats, who remember that Governor Bryan's brother kept Champ
"the k out of the white house" by throwing the nomination to Wilson
in 1912.

4. The Journal of Commerce, an independent Wall street organ, has just published an editorial cautioning republican Chairman Butler against overdoing his attack on La Follette as an enemy of the constitution, fearing that such attacks will react in La Follette's favor.

All of which is rather conclusive evidence that La Follette is the big factor in this campaign. The foregoing information is from leaders who are trying to beat La Follette, not from sources prejudiced in his favor. It reveals more about the political situation than reams of the usual publicity material.
The fact is that La Follette, having made an apathetic start, has now picked up speed. He says that before this campaign is over he will have made more speeches than both of the other two candidates put together. From now on, La Follette will be the pivotal figure in this campaign. His speech at Madison Square Garden will be the first blast in a campaign that will determine whether the election will be thrown into congress.

ARREST ENGINEER IN JEWEL THEFT

Man Alleged to Have Offered for $400 to Tell Where $50,000 in Stones
Could Be Found.

New York, September 17.—The first arrest in the $50,000 jewel robbery in the home of Miss Edith Bobe, fashionable modiste late Monday night, came tonight when detectives arrested a man who said he was Montague Pike, 29, a civil engineer, on a charge of extortion.

According to detectives, he offered to tell Miss Irene Flaherty, secretary to Miss Bobe, where the missing jewels could be found, provided she would pay $400 for the information.

Miss Flaherty was said to have received a telephone call from a man who offered to reveal the disposition of the stolen jewelry for $400. Detectives in the next room tried to trace the call, but before they could do so, the man rang off. Later in the day, he called again and acting on instructions given her by the detectives, Miss Flaherty agreed to meet him at a corner near the Bobe house.

She did so and walked along with him while detectives across the street watched her hand him a roll of bills. They arrested him as he turned to walk away.

He was carrying a brief case containing papers pertaining to engineering work.
Miss Bobe is said to have come here from Detroit, 12 years ago. She then was Edith Weeks. She went to work as a cutter in a cloak and suit factory, but soon opened a little mil-
lery shop of her own on Broadway.
It was not long before she had one of the ultra-fashionable modiste shops in the city. Her change of name from Weeks to Bobe has not been explained.

GEORGIA'S PLEDGE TO AID CAMPAIGN MADE AT MEETING

Democratic Keynote for State Sounded by Leading Georgians at Big Dinner Wednesday.

ALLEN EXPLAINS PLAN TO RAISE BIG QUOTA

Drive for $25,000 for National Campaign and Effort To Get Out Big Vote
Now Under Way.

Confidence in the success of the democratic party in the November election and assurance that Georgia will raise her share of the national democratic campaign fund, was expressed Wednesday at noon at a dinner given at the Capital City club
by Major John S. Cohen, national committeeman from Georgia, which was attended by many prominent democratic leaders of the state.

The meeting was given as a means of introducing Victor Allen, of Buf-
ford, recently appointed to head the Georgia drive for the national campaign fund, to democratic leaders of the state. Other guests of honor included Senator Fat Harrison, of Mississippi, who delivered the keynote address at the national democratic convention; Senator Walter F.
George, United States senator from Georgia; Governor Clifford Walker
and Mrs. Edgar Alexander, democratic national committeewoman from Georgia.

Those in attendance adopted resolutions organizing themselves as the executive committee of Fulton county, and pledged themselves to cooperate with Mr. Allen in every way in the campaign to raise funds in the state.

Georgia Must Help.

Governor Walker, the first speaker introduced by Major Cohen, delivered a short address, speaking confidently of the part that will be taken by Georgia in the coming campaign.
The democratic party is the only party which patriotic people of the nation can look to to protect them
from special interests," the chief executive stated, "and it is the duty of Georgia democrats to help carry other states for the party ticket, not only by subscribing their full quota to the national campaign fund but by doing everything else in their power."

Senator Harrison expressed great enthusiasm in discussing prospects.

RAWLS CONVICTED ON KILLING CHARGE

Chatham Jury Recommends Mercy of Court for Slaying of Poindexter.

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—Bernard H. Rawls, charged with murder in connection with the death of A. Lamar Poindexter, manager of the Hotel Tybee, May 31, was found guilty with a recommendation to mercy by a jury of the superior court here tonight.

Judge Peter W. Meldrum sentenced him to life imprisonment.
The case went to the jury about 7:20 o'clock tonight. The trial was begun here this morning. Rawls was a clerk at the hotel at the time of the shooting.

Rawls entered a plea of not guilty
and after statements by Walter C.
Partridge, solicitor general, and A. A.
Lawrence, defense counsel, examination of witnesses was begun. Dr.
James Jones was the first witness, and Dr. Robert Drane the second. They testified as to the bullet wound inflicted in Poindexter's abdomen.

The defendant was surrounded by several members of his family. He is represented by Earl Camp, of Dublin, Judge A. B. Lovett and Mr. Lawrence. Judge Lovett conducted the examination of witnesses for the defense. Samuel A. Cann is associated with the solicitor general for the state.

When the case was called there were comparatively few spectators in the room. Within an hour, however,
the courtroom was crowded and seats
were not available for late comers.
Mrs. Poindexter, widow of the slain man, was one of the star witnesses for the state. She said Rawls shot her husband while he was prostrate on the floor where he had slipped. The defendant deliberately shot while he was in a helpless position, she said.

Rawls in his own defense pleaded self-defense. He contended he had to shoot Poindexter to protect his own life.
The defendant was brought into the courtroom at 10:05 o'clock. He was seated near his counsel and was apparently composed.

Immediately behind Rawls and his counsel sat the mother of the defendant and a sister from Dublin. The little daughter of the defendant was also present.

Both Parents of Pretty Babe Called Unfit To Rear Child

BY LYLE C. WILSON.

New York, September 17.—Baby
Rosebelle Young's deft manipulation of a lipstick, powder puff and mirror
as she rearranged her complexion in the supreme court room of Justice Levy was the final damning factor that condemned both 3-year-old Rose-belle's wealthy father and her former Follies-girl mother as unfit to have the custody of their baby.

Rosebelle's puffy hands innocently dashed her lips and cheeks with a skilful application of cosmetics while Courtland Young, who publishes magazines, and Mrs. Dorothea Campbell Young exchanged mutual abuse by way of the witness stand. The beautiful Mrs. Young was pilloried as an immoral person, who sought and enjoyed the company of others equally immoral. She drank, lied and generally conducted herself in a disgraceful manner, her husband and his witnesses told Justice Levy.

When the former Dorothea Campbell took the stand she told the court that Young's drunken abuse had forced her to leave him and to take her baby with her. Under questioning from Mrs. Young's counsel Young had admitted the paternity of an illegitimate child, participation in frequent drinking parties and the habit of "picking up" women who flattered him. It was thus, he said, that he met the girl who bore the unnamed child. She flirted with him in a hotel, he explained.

There was talk of all-night parties in which Mrs. Young participated on Long Island. Maids, butlers and the usual crew of servant-witnesses testified to pajama cuddling and copious drinking.

Baby Rosebelle, whom her mother and father call Rosebud because she looks like one, was the least interested person in court. Flappers slightly older than she leaned forward in their seats to learn what happened when the lights went off on Long Island,
but not Rosebelle. Her complexion probably was less in need of attention than any other in court, but so.

Governor Smith Will Make Race, Declares Mack

Statement Follows Lengthy Conference Between Two Tammany Leaders.

Albany, N. Y., September 17.— Governor Al Smith, upon whose candidacy the democrats are depending to carry New York for John W. Davis, has decided to accept the renomination of the democratic state convention for governor, in the belief of Norman E.
Mack, of Buffalo, democratic national committeeman.

This prediction followed a lengthy conference between Smith and Mack.
The latter would not reveal what was said, but declared he was confident that the governor would accept the nomination.

Hundreds Killed As Quakes Raze Armenian Towns

Red Cross Rushes Aid to 102 Villages Shaken by Tremors.

Constantinople, September 17.—
(By Associated Press.)—An earthquake last Saturday destroyed 102 villages and killed hundreds of persons, according to a dispatch received by the Turkish government from Erzerum, Armenia.

The Red Cross has dispatched aid to the stricken region.
Beaufort, N. C., September 17.—
Rain, which fell here continuously from Saturday night until early today, culminated last night in a fall of 12 inches in 10 hours. It was said to be the heaviest rainfall here in a number of years.

Sections of concrete pavement
were washed out and minor damage was done to property. Water was standing today in many sections of the town.

17-Year-Old Boy Who Stole Million in Bonds Acquitted

BY H. H. ROBERTSON.

Chicago, September 17.—Money intoxication and tender years have saved
from prison "Wee Willie" Dalton, who at the age of 17 walked away
with about $1,000,000 in bonds belonging to the Northern Trust company.

The youthful bank robber, said to be the youngest ever to steal such a sum in the United States, was found not guilty by a jury at the conclusion of his third trial here Wednesday.
His attorneys made impassioned pleas for mercy.

Dalton, modestly attired, enthusiastically shook hands with friends and his lawyers when the jury announced its verdict.
"I knew I never would be kept up for that stunt," he said, referring to his crime. "I took the bonds all right,
but I did not realize what I was doing and I have gone straight since and always will."

At Liberty Last 3 Years.
Dalton has been at liberty most of the time during the past three years on bond. In two previous trials, the juries disagreed.
Michael J. Ahern, chief counsel for "Wee Willie," in his summing up spoke of the robbery as "a boyish impulse."
"Why, if this boy is to be punished
for something he did three years ago,
then everyone should be punished for pranks committed when they were boys," he said. "He simply stole for a thrill."

Thomas D. Nash, associate defense counsel, said:
"This lad, then 17 years old, and earning $40 a month, was simply and literally intoxicated by the sight of

LA FOLLETTE AIMS TO EXTERMINATE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Independent Candidate Expects To Found New Liberal Party on Ruins of Democracy.

HIS HOPES BUILDED ON SAND FOUNDATION

Observers Declare Idea Could Only Be Accomplished by Success in Congressional Races.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, September 17.—Some of the leaders of La Follette's progressive party, having been impressed with an allegation damaging to them that has been circulated largely by word of mouth in some sections of the country, have put out a counter statement.

This story was to the effect that if the election should be thrown into congress, La Follette would manipulate his strength in the house and senate in such a way as to effect as the ultimate result the election of Charles W. Bryan as vice president.
It was an essential part of this story
to assume that in the lower house
there would be a deadlock resulting in no election of a president, and that therefore Charles W. Bryan, having been elected vice president,
with the aid of those republican senators who follow La Follette, would be president. This story has been used as important campaign material in several states. In Minnesota
the question was put up squarely
to Senator Magnus Johnson, now running for reelection, whether, in the event of the election being thrown into congress, he would vote for Dawes or Bryan.

Would Destroy Democrat Party.
From La Follette circles there now comes an answer to the effect that they would not regard their fortunes
as being advanced by Charles W.
Bryan becoming the next president.
What the La Follette people now say is that they are less interested in the question of who is to be the next president of the United States than in founding a new party. From this, as a detail of their reply, they go on to say that a new party can be successfully established only on the condition that one of the old parties shall disappear. Then, these La Follette leaders say, that as between the

BOARD TO SURVEY NEED OF SCHOOLS

Reopening of Fight to Complete $10,000,000
Program Seen in Statement of Hancock.

Reopening of the fight for completion of the $10,000,000 school building program recommended by the Engelhardt-Streyer survey of three years ago, was indicated in a statement Wednesday by John T. Hancock, president of the board of education, announcing that he would appoint a commission of citizens, representing the principal civic organizations, to make a thorough survey of school needs and conditions.

The statement recalled that two years ago Superintendent Willis A.
Sutton and other members of the present board had predicted that the existing school buildings, even when supplemented by two structures built with the $4,000,000 school bond issue,
would house only the 1923 enrollment and that 1924 would find them inadequate.

This forecast, Mr. Hancock said, has been borne out by conditions at present, when 140 so-called "portable," or temporary class-room units,
are in service to house an overflow
of several thousand pupils this year.

The proposed commission, which is to be appointed shortly, will include representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Advertising club, Federation of Women's clubs, Parent-Teacher association, Federation of trades, American legion, Christian council,
Inter-Civil council, Presidents' club
and similar organizations, with school board members and school officials acting ex-officio.

"The duty of this commission," Mr.
Hancock stated, "will be to study
the present buildings and to determine as definitely as possible the absolute needs of the schools and to make recommendations as to what method should be employed to meet these needs."

The school authorities, it was indicated, would not try to influence the judgment of the commission, and would not urge any special plan for meeting the building needs that might be disclosed.

PITTSBURG PLUS ORDER IS OBEYED BY STEEL MAKERS

Companies Notify Trade Commission That Obnoxious Sales Plan Will Be Abandoned.

Washington, September 17.—The nine steel corporations which were ordered recently by the Federal Trade commission to abandon the Pittsburg plus practice of price-making have agreed to conform to the order and will abandon the practice, they have notified the trade commission here.

"Respondents, without admitting the validity of said order or the jurisdiction of the commission to make the same, have determined to conform thereto, and will hereafter conform thereto in the sale of the various products, in so far as it is practicable to do so," the report from the steel corporations read.

Contest Seemed Certain.
There was some indication after the issuance of the order that the order might be contested, particularly by the United States Steel corporation, which controls 50 per cent of the steel industry, and is most affected.

The companies which were cited by the trade commission and which have agreed to conform to the order abolishing the practice, besides the United States Steel corporation, are: American Bridge company, American Steel & Tin Plate company, Carnegie Steel company, National Tube company, American Steel & Wire company, Illinois Steel company, Minnesota Steel company, and the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company.

Denounced as Price-Fixing.
The Pittsburg Plus system of establishing prices is the method whereby the price of steel products delivered from a factory at any point is equal to the price at Pittsburg plus the freight to that point, though there is no shipment and no actual freight charge. It was denounced by the Federal Trade commission as price-fixing, in an order issued July 21,
this year, after an investigation conducted over four years. The commission stated that it constituted an unfair competition for smaller independent companies.

The nine corporations in their report to the commission stated that they will not quote for sale or sell their rolled steel products upon any other basis point than that where the products are manufactured or from which they are shipped.

The order of the commission was hailed at the time as one of the most revolutionary industrial decisions in years, affecting general business, the farmers and the consumers. The commission said that the cessation of the practice would considerably reduce the cost of farm implements.

MAJOR MCGREGOR
LIES NEAR DEATH

Georgia Pension Commissioner Believed Fatally Stricken at Warrenton Home.

Warrenton, Ga., September 17.— (Special.)—Major C. E. McGregor, state pension commissioner, is desperately ill at his home here and is not expected to live according to reports from the attending physicians.
Advanced age and other complications doctors say may prove fatal. He has been in declining health for the past several weeks, but refused to give up.
He was stricken at his home Sunday
and no alarm was felt over his condition until today when a turn for the worse took place.

Doctors were summoned hastily and they have been at his bedside since last yesterday afternoon. He took a turn for the worse and at nightfall
his chances for recovery were reported as doubtful.

A later report was that there was no chance for his recovery, although he might survive through the night,
and possibly several days or a week.

Major McGregor was born in Warren county, Georgia. At an early age, he enlisted in the service of the Confederate army and served through the war, serving as a lieutenant in the eighth Georgia regiment. He took part in many important engagements and for his efficiency and valor in battle, he was promoted to the rank of colonel, though this distinction came too late for him to see active service in the office, his promotion having occurred the day preceding the final surrender of General Robert E. Lee.

He took part in many desperate conflicts and his continued interest in his comrades is shown by his affiliation with the United Confederate veterans. He was a trustee of the "Old Soldiers' home."
After the war, Major McGregor was for many years a farmer in Warrenton.

Impassioned Tribute to Woodrow Wilson Brings Tears From Hearers at Des Moines.

PROMISES TO SLASH TARIFF AND TAXES

Tariff Reduction To Be Made in Such Manner
That Business Stability
Will Be Safe.

Des Moines, Iowa, September 17.— Features set in a grim, determined line, his eyes misted by tears, John W. Davis irrevocably committed himself to the League of Nations Wednesday before an audience of 2,000 women in an impassioned eulogy of Woodrow Wilson. His oratory made many of his hearers weep.

In his dramatic defense of the league, and the man who dreamed it,
as an instrument that would bring lasting peace, Davis disregarded the advice of many persons who had warned him that advocacy of the league got no votes. His voice rang with sincerity, and his words carried the conviction of his belief in the league and brought tears streaming down the faces of his hearers.

"It is impossible to think of this subject," said Davis in his sweeping peroration, "without thinking of the name of a man who battled largely for that cause—whose failed—but whose name will live; because no man in all history has ever associated his name
with a great moral ideal and gone down to oblivion."

"He lived in the storm, and in the tempest; but from that great height
he looked out across the sea and saw the ocean of peace that will finally lap all the shores where dwell the sons of men."

"And in the days to come," he concluded with greater emphasis, "the nations of the world will warm themselves through the centuries by the fires that Woodrow Wilson lit."

The women were thrown into a frenzy by the solemn, measured words of the candidate. They surged about him, all trying to shake his hands.
Several women attempted to kiss Davis, and might have succeeded, if he had not been hurried from the hall to keep an engagement with the state bar association.

"When we recall the engines of destruction that the world war produced," he said, "and the unnamed horrors that lie hidden at each overhang the next conflict of that character, the man or woman who is not willing to make any sacrifice to prevent it, is something of a traitor not only to himself but to the human race."

The "collective and common judgment of mankind," operating through a world court is needed to enforce good conduct among nations, Davis said.
In advocating American

tariff laws and attacked President Coolidge for what he described as "coolidge" claiming credit for the tariff passed by the last congress, a bill which, he asserted, the administration opposed.

Contrasting what he said were the guiding principles of the two parties in the handling of matters of tariff and taxation, the democratic presidential nominee declared "the democratic theory is a maximum of revenue with a minimum of tax; the republican doctrine is a minimum of revenue with a maximum of subsidy."

Raps G. O. P. Boasting. Besides promising tax and tariff reform, Mr. Davis declared for economy in government national and state, and in this connection he said he wanted to take exception to the "boasting" of the republican administration on the subject of tax and public debt reduction. He presented figures to show that the democratic administration had reduced taxes more than two billions of dollars after the war and that it had cut the public debt at a rate of $140,000 a month, against the $67,500 under the present administration.

Mr. Davis' address tonight at the Coliseum was the fourth delivered here since his arrival early in the day from Missouri. He spoke first at an organization meeting of democratic leaders; then at a gathering of democratic women, and finally at a dinner by the junior chamber of commerce. He left late tonight for Chicago, where he is to speak tomorrow night.

Denounce Tariff Law.

After outlining his conception of the difference in the taxation doctrines of the democratic and republican parties, Mr. Davis launched into a scathing denunciation of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law. He declared that the cause of shifting economic conditions then existing, "it was not" a time for the preparation of a tariff measure based upon any principle except that of greed.

Reviewing these economic conditions, Mr. Davis declared that "never in all the history of America was there less reason to erect a Chinese wall around her borders and cut off productive commerce with the outside world."

Pointing out that the republican press had condemned the measure "as even more out of line with the times than the Payne-Aldrich bill was in 1909," the speaker said that a bill of this sort does not protect, but "merely exploits."

"Every consumer in America can, from his own daily experience, bear witness to this fact," he said.

Hurtis Foreign Market. Asserting that the measure had restricted the market abroad for American agriculture and American industries, which must export if they are to prosper, the democratic nominee said the bill was "economic madness and political destruction."

"Mr. Coolidge and his party pledge themselves to maintain the existing law," he went on.

Against this legislative monstrosity and in substitution for it, the democratic party proposed to reform the tariff by revising downward the existing duties to a truly competitive basis, and by eliminating all favoritism and the evils that flow from it. We do not.

"We do not propose any ruthless and vindictive slashing of rates to gratify political animosities or class antagonism. We are fully aware that the cutting of duties is an operation requiring care to avoid jeopardizing the stability and sense of security that are essential to the transaction of business."

"We have no resentment, but only friendliness, toward legitimate business fairly conducted; but we do intend to withdraw the invitation extended in the form of exorbitant rates of duty to profit through monopolistic control of production, markets and prices. We propose to permit a competition effective enough to stimulate enterprise; to prevent monopoly and to discourage obsolete or impracticable processes and equipment or bad management, indolence, waste and neglect."

Turning to internal tax reduction, Mr. Davis compared the tax bill enacted by congress through a coalition of democrats and insurgents and the Mellon plan for which it was substituted and announced that "the democrats challenge comparison of these two measures."

"It is unlikely that the challenge will be accepted," he added, "in view of the fact that the republican national convention at Cleveland did not dare mention the Mellon plan in its recital of republican achievements or to advocate its substitution for the law now in force."

Welcomes Comparison. Mr. Davis told his audience that the democratic party welcomed the "closest comparison of party records on the question of taxation, economies and tax reduction," reviewing then what the federal treasury under democratic control had accomplished after the armistice, the democratic nominee took exception to the statement by President Coolidge in his acceptance address that the management of the treasury under Secretary Mellon had been "unmatched" since the days of Alexander Hamilton.

"I am constrained to think," he added, "either that history has been forgotten or that eulogy has run mad."

The democratic chances of success in the November election are "much better than I expected to find them,"

Mr. Davis declared upon his arrival.

In every state he has visited during his present tour, said Mr. Davis, he has found factional differences composed and the party leaders putting up a united front in their early campaign plans.

The nominee expressed the belief that few democratic votes would be lost to the independent ticket headed by Senator La Follette.

the monotonous stories droned on Rosabelle wandered away from the counsel table and plunged her pudgy, baby hand into an open bag of a woman's spectator. Out came the tiny fist clutching a lipstick, mirror and puff, and soon the tot was "making up."

Justice Levy had seen enough. At the conclusion of the trial, of Young's suit to remove Rosabelle from the custody of her mother, the justice declared himself convinced that neither parent is fit to have charge of the baby.

Sent Babe to School. Rosabelle will be sent to a Catholic school, Young has offered to provide her with the best schooling obtainable. Justice Levy is willing for Young to foot the bills, but will not award his court order that neither father nor mother shall have custody of the child.

When the decision was announced Mrs. Young ran to a corridor and bent over her baby, in tears. Young, who had been in court, looked on, his father and mother forced the harsh things they had sworn about each other and made a start to reconciliation.

That didn't move Justice Levy at all. Rosabelle is going away from her rich daddy and her beautiful mamma to a place where babies don't use lipsticks nor sniff liquor with their kisses or even run around apartment corridors while mamma throws a wild party, as one witness said. The bearing of all this on the rumor which the progressives seek to set at rest, is the inference that since they want the democratic party to disappear, it would not be to their interest to prolong the life of that party by taking the step which would make one of its candidates the next president of the United States.

Jury will probe Hoffman mystery

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 17. Charges of murder against Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bennett, of Rome, Ga., growing out of the disappearance in 1915 of Miss Augusta Hoffman from the Bennett home in Chattanooga, will probably be investigated Friday or Saturday by the Hamilton county grand jury now in session, it was learned this afternoon.

About two months ago the skeleton of a woman was found under the house formerly occupied by the Bennetts. A set of false teeth, a pair of spectacles and a pair of shoes which were said to resemble some possessed by Miss Hoffman, were found with the skeleton. The finding of the skeleton recalled the mysterious disappearance of Miss Hoffman and the fact that nothing had been heard since from her. The Bennetts were arrested and after examination charged with the murder of the woman.

At the time of the disappearance, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett stated to neighbors that it was their belief that Miss Hoffman had left for Knoxville, her former home. Later, they said they had learned that she had married and gone to California. She had lived in the same house with the Bennetts for many months before her disappearance.

FATE OF JACKSON RESTS WITH JURY

The fate of H. A. Jackson, on trial for murder in Fulton superior court, was placed in the hands of the jury Wednesday afternoon.

Jackson was arraigned before Judge John D. Humphries Wednesday morning to answer an indictment charging him with murdering Percy B. Wolfe, proprietor of the Central Club market, where Jackson was employed as night watchman. The state alleges that Jackson shot Wolfe to death following an argument on June 7.

The case was given the jury Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. At 5 o'clock Judge Humphries adjourned court and instructed jurors to return a sealed verdict, in event they reached a conclusion before Thursday morning. It is expected that the verdict will be ready when court reconvenes this morning at 9 o'clock.

Evidence in the trial was that Wolfe and Jackson had engaged in an argument over the fact that the former had instructed the latter to remain on duty over Sunday. A missing key to one of the market doors, which Jackson declared Wolfe accused him of stealing, also was given as one of the causes of the argument.

When Wolfe turned to walk away from Jackson, it was brought out in testimony, a pistol shot rang out and Wolfe sank to the floor with a wound in the back. Witnesses declared Jackson held a smoking pistol in his hand.

The defense bases its plea of not guilty on the fact that the pistol was accidentally fired when Jackson started to put the weapon in his pocket.

TRAVEL SHUNNING MACON HIGHWAY

On account of the bad condition of the highway between Atlanta and Macon, motor travel between southwest Georgia and Atlanta is now being rapidly diverted to the straight-line route via Griffin, Thomaston, Butler, Ellaville and Americus, and as soon as the several companies along this route complete their contemplated highway improvements, this will undoubtedly become of general use for travel between Atlanta and all points in southwest Georgia unless something is done to improve the condition of the highway between Macon and Americus.

The direct route to Albany is 40 miles shorter than by Macon, and while this route is at present by no means in good condition for the weather travel, every county along the

Sites Considered For Aviation Field By Committee

Study of sites proposed for the municipal air field will occupy the full time today of the special committee of council, Councilman Carl C. Aven chairman, stated Wednesday night.

Two sites were inspected Wednesday, one owned by W. J. Vernoy, on the A. B. & A. railroad, northwest of Fort McPherson, and one owned by J. S. Hightower, on Hightower road.

The Brown's Mill road site which was held under option by the city two years ago, the county poor farm site on Powers' Ferry road, and several other tracts will be inspected today if time permits. Chairman Aven said.

No definite recommendations are to be made by the committee until after a joint conference with county commissioners on the special committee.

Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Danforth, commander of the aviation service for the fourth corps area, accompanied the councilmen Wednesday. His approval will be necessary to make the site acceptable to the war and postoffice departments, which are to establish military and air-mail routes through the south within a short time.

The site to be selected should be on high, level ground, without trees or other obstructions, so that heavy enough to insure the ground's remaining firm during heavy rains, easily approachable from all directions, and several hundred acres large, Colonel Danforth said.

The city and county are to share the expense of securing and putting into acceptable condition the site which is finally selected. The council committee, composed of Dr. Aven, Aldermen J. L. Carpenter and Oscar Williamson, is under instructions to report a definite proposal back to council on October 6 for final action.

Mr. Donovan's death occurred at the Roosevelt hospital in New York, after he had undergone an operation, while on a visit to his brother. He had been in failing health for more than a year but was thought to be on the road to recovery when complications set in that caused his death.

Mr. Donovan was the oldest official in point of service of the Atlanta & Lowry bank and had been prominent in financial circles in the south for many years.

DIRECT ROUTE TO ALBANY.

Showing counties which are cooperating to construct all-the-year highway between Atlanta, southwest Georgia and Florida.

route is cooperating to make it an all-the-year-round good or bad weather highway between Albany and Atlanta. It is reported that under existing conditions, this highway is now as good as the route between Macon and Atlanta, and it is certainly as good as that part of the Macon route from Barnesville to the Bibb county line, over which passenger motor bus service has had to be suspended on account of the condition of the road.

During the past few days travelers report that the highway south of Griffin through Lamar and Forsyth counties is almost impassable, and that there has been a marked decrease in travel on this route by those who are making a try-out of the direct route through Ellaville, Butler and Zebulon. The link between Atlanta and Griffin through Clayton, of which Jonesboro is the county seat, is common to both highways, and there seems to be no immediate prospect of carrying on the concrete work already completed by Fulton county to the north and Spalding county to the south of Clayton.

It is said that all counties between Atlanta and Albany on the direct route are now cooperating to the end of completing a continuous paved highway within the next year, and if this is done the line of general travel to western Florida and southwest Georgia will undoubtedly be diverted to that route.

WOODRUFF SPENT $3,064.10 IN RACE FOR STATE OFFICE

Only one candidate among those who had opposition in the recent democratic state primary has filed a statement of campaign expenses with Comptroller-General William A. Wright.

Albert J. Woodruff, who was defeated for the public service commission by J. D. Price, the incumbent, lists his expenditures in the race at $3,064.10. The heaviest item, amounting to $1,200.70, went for newspaper advertising. His printing bill was $628.40; postage, $350; traveling expenses, $175; clerical help, $200 and entrance fee, $150.

Hal M. Stanley, unopposed for reelection as commissioner of commerce and labor, filed his expense report, listing merely the $150 entrance fee, while Comptroller-General Wright, also unopposed, filed a similar one for his candidacy. None of the three reported any campaign contributions received.

PRESIDENT LAUDS WILBUR SPEECHES

Washington, September 17.—It was reported today at the White House that the return of Secretary Wilbur had been requested by President Coolidge because "important naval matters made it necessary to see him at once."

At the same time it was officially denied that the president had heard of any criticism of any speeches made on the Pacific coast by Secretary Wilbur or any comment concerning them other than that they had been helpful.

A statement explaining the recall of Mr. Wilbur was issued at the White House. It said:

"It was officially denied at the White House that the president had heard of any criticism of any speeches made on the coast by Secretary Wilbur."

Omaha-Muskogee Jump Is Planned Today by Fliers

Omaha, September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Another 440 miles of their world-encircling flight checked off by the eventful four and three-quarter-hour jump from Chicago to Omaha today, the army world fliers rested here tonight, in preparation for the 450-mile trip tomorrow, if weather permits, to St. Joseph, Mo., and Muskogee, Okla.

The six airmen, Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, pilot of the Chicago and his mechanic, Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold, Lieutenant Erik Nelson, pilot of the New Orleans, and his mechanic, Lieutenant Harding, and Lieutenant Leigh Wade with his mechanic, Lieutenant Henry G. Ogden, in the Boston II, retired early to be at the field in time to have their planes ready to depart at 9 o'clock central standard time.

The landing at Jarvis Offutt field was made at 12:35 this afternoon, about an hour and a half before it was expected. As a result the crowd at the field was not so large.

To-morrow's flying program includes a stop of one hour at St. Joseph, 135 miles south of Omaha, on the Missouri river, and a continuance to Muskogee, Okla., 325 miles south after a slight deviation to pass over Kansas City, Mo.

The planes will stay at Muskogee overnight and resume the flight to Dallas, Texas, Friday.

Their arrival over Omaha today was marked by the blowing of factory and shop whistles. Crowds stood in the streets, others watched and waved from building tops, and school children were permitted to file out for a look at the passing "modern Magellans."

Lieutenant Smith indicated that the flight was one of the smoothest and easiest experienced in the world flight, so far as flying conditions were concerned.

After passing over Davenport, Iowa, and then Des Moines, the air mail lane to Omaha, was followed without incident, he said.

Walters Bank Closed.

St. Paul, Minn., September 17.—The State Bank of Walters, with a capital of $10,000 and deposits aggregating $120,000, has been closed, A. J. Veigel, state superintendent of banks, announced today.

The bank was closed because of "bad" paper.

Most of the lands about the South pole are claimed as British dependencies.

LEAGUE STAND RAPPED BY SOVIET OFFICIALS

Moscow, September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Bitter resentment is manifested by the Soviet officials and newspapers over the resolution adopted by the League of Nations assembly with regard to the situation in Georgia. In supporting the resolution, Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain, is accused by the government newspapers of deliberately violating the recently concluded Anglo-Russian treaty which expressly forbids interference by one country in the internal affairs of the other.

The Soviet officials contend that the league has no more right to investigate the Georgian question than it would the situation in Mesopotamia, Syria, or any other country under foreign tutelage. They insist that the people of Georgia indicated their political preference in 1921 by ousting the so-called democratic government and enrolling under the aegis of the Soviet republic.

The Pravda suggests that a plebiscite be held not only in Georgia but in India, China, Morocco and Egypt, stating that Soviet Russia will await the reply of the British and French premiers to this "challenge."

It is stated officially that the recent uprising in Georgia was an isolated affair and that conditions throughout Georgia are quite normal.

Recent dispatches from various sources have indicated that a movement of considerable proportion was underway in Georgia with the object of establishing the country's complete independence from Soviet Russia.

The action of the league assembly was taken after an appeal for intervention issued by President Jordan, of the Georgian republic, in Paris.

The resolution, introduced in the assembly by France, Great Britain and Belgium, asks the council of the league to watch events in Georgia and seize any opportunities to help the return of the country to its normal situation.

U. S. CUTTER SEIZES 24,000 QUARTS RUM

HISTORY REPEATS IN RECORD RAINS AT THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., September 17.—Showing that history does sometimes repeat itself, R. Thomas, well-known druggist of this city, who for several years kept a private weather observation bureau, finds in looking back over his record that in 1903, before the establishment of the official bureau, there was a rain on September 14 and 15, beginning just at the time the one did here this week, and that the rainfall for 24 hours was over 9 inches, just the amount recorded for the rain of this week for 24 hours.

There had been a dry spell preceding it and not a drop of rain had fallen in September up to that date, as had been the case this time. That rainfall, like this, equalled the average for the whole month of September with enough over to make up the deficiency of August.

COOLIDGE'S SON JOINS PHI GAMMA DELTA FRAT

Amherst, September 17.—President Coolidge's son John, who matriculated at Amherst college this year, has pledged himself to the fraternity of which his father is a member, the Phi Gamma Delta. Before making his choice, young Coolidge was given the opportunity to inspect all 14 societies at the college. Today, together with his room-mate, the president's son took up his residence in a modest two-room suite in a rooming house where he will live during his college career.

SECURITIES OFFICIALS END CONVENTION TODAY

Richmond, Va., September 17.—A short speaking program and election of national officers will close the seventh annual convention of the National Association of Securities Commissioners here tomorrow.

Today the convention heard E. H. H. Simmons, president of the New York Stock exchange, who assured the association of the cooperation of the exchange in fighting security frauds and fraudulent dealers, and William R. Shanks, director of the Virginia securities division, who outlined its history of securities legislation in Virginia and showed the delegates the working principles of the law now in effect. Round-table discussions held the areas for the remainder of the day's program.

William C. Oates, head of the Alabama securities commission, did not arrive to deliver his scheduled address.

Tomorrow the convention will meet to hear G. Gale Gilbert, of Illinois, deliver a talk on the partial payment plan in the sale of securities from the standpoint of the securities commissioner, and A. E. Bryson, of Chicago, who will discuss the plan from the investment banker's angle. "Uniform Legislation" will be the subject of another address by G. S. Canright, of Wisconsin.

Friday morning the delegates will leave for a motor trip to several points of interest in the state.

Ellis and Yarbrough Draw Police Fines In Trial at Macon

Macon, Ga., September 17.—Curran R. Ellis, prominent local architect, and Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, local dentist, paid fines in police court today, after they had been tried on disorderly conduct charges, growing out of a fist fight last Friday night. Ellis was fined $50, Dr. Yarbrough was fined $25 and John Snooks, elevator man at the Citizens & Southern building, where the fight occurred, was fined $15. Snooks is said to have drawn a gun during the fight and pointed it at Ellis.

Dr. Yarbrough figured in flogging trials in the city court here last year. He and Ellis have not been on good terms since that time, it is said. Friday night, while they were both on the same elevator, Dr. Yarbrough is said to have asked Ellis for reasons for his attitude toward him and in this way the fist fight started.

Young Washington Refuses To Adopt Politician Styles

Washington, September 17.—The younger male generation here positively refuses to follow the string tie, slouch hat and baggy-knee styles set by the politicians who infest this region.

At a meeting held by local clothing merchants to discuss style trends, Howard Cool, director of the Better Business bureau, said that the young man of Washington demands the best and latest things, and declared the Washington clothier has an exceptionally difficult task because of this.

The merchants resolved to devote more attention to acquainting Washington men with the latest styles.

TUMLIN WILL SEE CRISSINGER TODAY

Washington, September 17.—(Special.)—A. B. Tumlin, president of the Bank of Cave Spring, Ga., was unable to see Governor Crissinger, of the federal reserve board Wednesday, to protest against a recent ruling, according to Tumlin, of the sixth district bank at Atlanta, limiting the rediscount credit line, as the governor has not yet returned to the city.

Crissinger is expected Thursday and Tumlin has made an engagement to see him at that time. Tumlin, who recently appeared before the board of directors of the Atlanta bank, says that the action of the Atlanta bank amounts to a considerable curtailment of credit, as heretofore applied, and will be a hardship on farmers in Georgia. He declared that it will drive every state bank out of the federal reserve system.

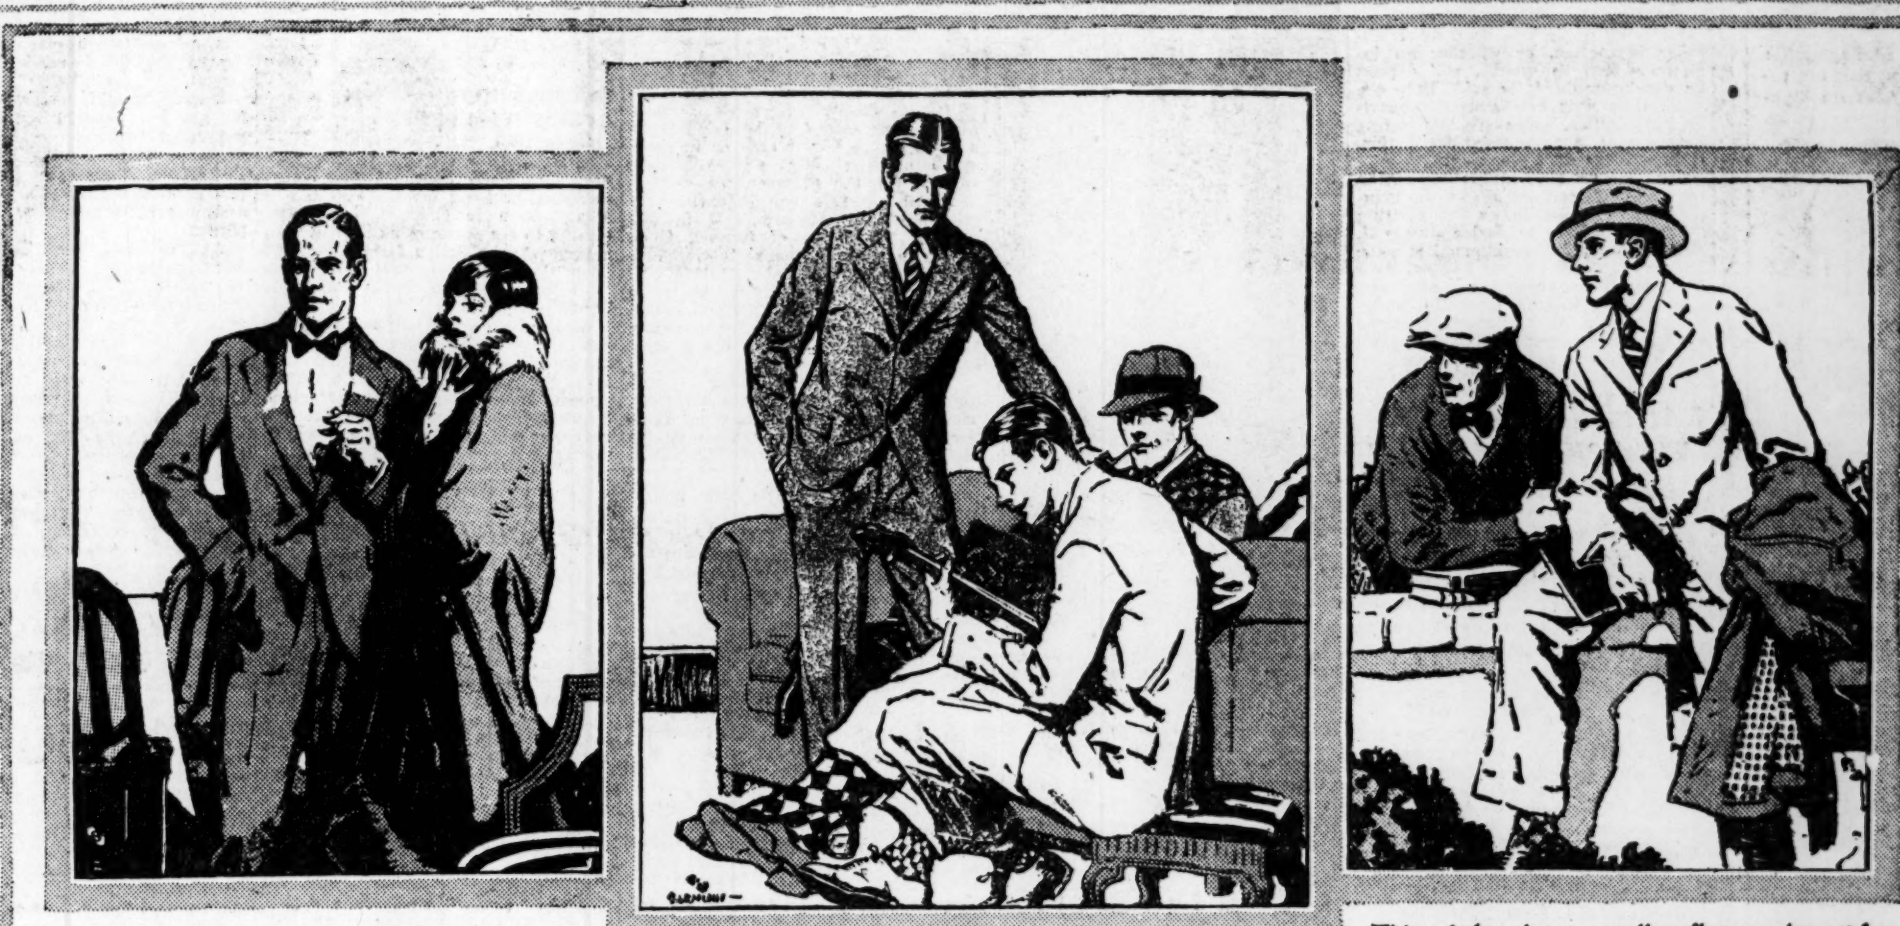

In a statement here Tuesday Governor M. B. Wellborn, of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, stated that no action had been taken which would alter the liberal credit plan of the Atlanta institution.

COVERDALE RESIGNS FROM FARM BUREAU

Chicago, September 17.—John W. Coverdale resigned as secretary and director of organization of the American Farm Bureau federation at the quarterly session of the executive committee today, while Gray Silver resigned as director of the legislative department and Washington representatives of the federation.

The two officials of the farm bureau resigned, it was stated, in order to devote all their time to the newly organized grain-marketing company, a corporation which plans ultimately to take over five large grain companies and operate them on a cooperative basis. Mr. Silver is president of the grain-marketing company, and Mr. Coverdale is secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Coverdale retained his position as treasurer of the American farm bureau federation. Farm bureau officials said a new secretary probably will not be named before the first of the year.

This Tuxedo shows well-built shoulders; narrower at the hips; a suggestion of a waist line; wider trousers

The two-button coat in the background shows the wider button spacing; one of the new fall notes

This suit has the smart college flavor; substantial shoulders; freedom in the coat and trousers' wide cuffs

HART SCHAFFNER & MARX SEE STYLE THE WAY YOUNG MEN SEE IT

Most young men know how difficult it is to define style in clothes. A suit may look right, measurements correct, proper number of buttons, but the style isn't there; the suit hasn't "got it"

Young men have a practised eye for these things; they see them; so do we

You want a coat that suggests good shoulders, that hangs easily with just a slight snugness at the hips; a waistcoat that hugs in a trifle at the belt line;

trousers that sit tight at the waist and drop full and easy to a wider cuff and cuffs must fall over the oxford just right at the heel and instep

You want distinction in the weave and pattern of the fabrics. You want color that is a bit unusual

You want good tailoring and value

You'll find all of these things in our clothes for fall

The style in this coat is in the easy way it hangs; flowing into the natural lines of the figure

Congressman's Cider Party

DRY AGENTS TO ACCEPT CHALLENGE OF SOLON

Is Sure of Official Guests

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, September 17.—Dry agents, disguised as nothing but dry agents, are expected to be among those present at the "cider party" to be staged by Representative Hill, of Maryland, at his Baltimore home Saturday, and may turn the affair into a "surprise party."

Though the prohibition officers are not likely to quaff the brew of the "wet" Maryland congressman, which he has manufactured in his own cellar, they are expected to avail themselves of samples, and if the kick is found to have the expected strength of about 2.75 per cent—something is likely to happen.

Hill has invited prohibition agents to attend his party, and has given the world, including Prohibition Commissioner Haynes here, full notification of the cider ceremonies.

Hill, in his ultimatum to Haynes, said that if the commissioner did not order him arrested, it would be regarded as an admission on Haynes' part that 2.75 per cent cider was not intoxicating, and that he would compel the dry head to so testify before the house judiciary committee.

Haynes himself is more silent than the well-known Egyptian sphinx. But information from other sources Wednesday indicated that there will be appropriate action if Hill stages his party—and there's little doubt of that.

"There can be no discrimination just because Hill is a congressman and is disobeying the law in this way," one official explained. "In fact, that is all the more reason to be strict with him, to treat him as every violator of the law is treated."

There is a court action now pending against Hill for his wine making last year. He was enjoined at that time through U. S. District Attorney Woodcock, at Baltimore. The case has never come up for trial. Officials at the prohibition unit gave as a reason the crowded docket, and said there was no inclination to drop the case.

Whether the action as a result of the coming party will be through another injunction, or whether an indictment will be sought, will depend on developments, it is said. Both the prohibition unit here and the department of justice, which are cooperating in the case, are prepared for action, it was learned Wednesday.

Hill has no case in his contention that the Volstead act allows the manufacture of cider to an intoxicating degree, according to Judge James J. Britt, counsel for the internal revenue bureau.

"Cider comes under the general act, and if it is manufactured for beverage purposes, at a higher alcoholic content than one-half of 1 per cent, that constitutes a violation of the law, just as with other liquors," Britt said.

FAIR AND WARMER WEATHER TODAY SAYS FORECASTER
Fair and warmer weather, similar to that of Wednesday afternoon, is in store for Atlanta for the balance of this week, according to official expectations of C. P. Herrmann, in charge of the local office of the U. S. weather bureau.

The temperature Wednesday rose to 75 degrees during the afternoon, after the day's low point of 58 degrees had been touched in the early hours of the morning. It remained cool for the rest of the day, however, due to a low-lying fog which prevented the sun from coming out in full force until late in the afternoon.

Quake in Indies.
Turks Island, West Indies, September 17.—A slight earthquake was felt here early this morning but no damage was reported.

Warren county. He has been prominent in state and public affairs and has served in both branches of the Georgia legislature. He was a close and personal friend of the late Thomas E. Watson.

Major McGregor's latest public office was that of state pension commissioner. He was defeated for nomination for this office by John W. Clark during the recent election.

Major McGregor attracted much attention following his election to the office, by a legal fight he made for inauguration on January 1, 1923, instead of at the time the governor was inaugurated in June, 1923. He lost his fight after carrying it through the appellate courts and took office with other statehouse officials in June.

GEORGIA'S PLEDGE TO AID CAMPAIGN

for a democratic victory in November. "There is not a single democratic leader who is not behind John W. Davis," he stated, "and victory is certain." He declared that the democratic nominee is better qualified in training, experience and ability than any nominee in the history of the country with the exception of the late President Woodrow Wilson.

The Mississippian also took occasion to testify as to the ability and popularity of both Georgia nominees in the United States senate. Senator William J. Harris, he stated, is one of the most servicable and hardest working members of that body, and with the prospect of almost certain democratic control of the next senate the Georgian will be chairman of the powerful committee on appropriations.

Returning to the subject of the national campaign he stated that the republicans are well financed and will not lack for funds in any state. He emphasized the fact that a contribution of $1 to the democratic national campaign fund late in September is worth more than double the amount contributed late in October, when it is too late to accomplish much.

"There are two things that Georgia democrats must do," said Senator Walter E. George in opening his address, "one of which is to contribute generously toward the national campaign fund, and the other is to get a representative vote throughout the state. The democratic strength is fixed in the minds of the rest of the nation by the vote cast in the regular election and not in the white primary, and in event of a democratic success in the fall, the influence of Georgia on congressmen and senators from other states will depend largely on the vote cast in this state on November 4."

It is necessary to raise all the money possible, he declared, and there is no such thing as having too much money. He stated that in south Georgia, where he lives, democrats are organizing to meet the republican offensive vote and that if the same thing is done in middle and northern sections of the state the strength of the party in Georgia no longer can be misunderstood.

Recalls Severe Words.
In conclusion he stated that the severest language ever used against any political party was expressed by John W. Davis when he was indicted the republican party on the grounds that it is an organization which has shaken the confidence of the American people in their government."

Senator George was followed on the platform by Victor Allen, prominent Buford business man and manufacturer. In introducing him, Major Cohen told of his success in the business world and in raising funds for the Georgia School of Technology, and paid high tribute to his loyalty to the democratic party.

Mr. Allen outlined plans to reach democrats throughout the state. He said that district chairmen have been appointed and that many of them already have appointed county chairmen. Steps are being taken, he stated, to guarantee that every democrat in Georgia will be reached by letter and in person and will be urged to contribute toward the national campaign fund. He explained that it is imperative that what work is done must be completed within the next 30 days.

Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and a member of the national committee from this state, expressed thorough sympathy with and interest in the movement to raise funds in Georgia. He declared that it is highly important for Georgia democrats to contribute toward work of the party in doubtful states and urged that all democrats cast their votes in November.

Canvass Suggested.
He stressed the importance of an active canvass for funds and expressed confidence that the response will be satisfactory. He declared that the outlook for the party is exceedingly bright, and that it is a matter for congratulation that the present campaign is entered into without the necessity of raising money for deficits incurred in previous campaigns. He pledged himself to aid in every possible way in raising funds and bringing

De Castellane-Gould Wedding Annulment Is Refused by Pope
Rome, September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The question of annulment of the marriage of Count Boni de Castellane to Anna Gould, believed to have been settled early in June when a special commission of cardinals appointed by the pope to examine the case pronounced in favor of annulment, has been opened.

The pope has referred the case back to the same special commission, augmented by the addition of two other cardinals, and this body will meet in November to reexamine the count's application for an annulment.

After the favorable verdict by the commission it was reported the pope, who usually confirms the decisions of such bodies, had done so in this case. It is now made clear that his holiness was not inclined to the idea of annulment and that he ordered reconsideration of the judgment.

Two Young Murderers Plan Defense Like Leopold, Loeb

CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY THEY SHOULD BE KILLED

BY H. H. H. ROBERTSON.
(United News Staff Correspondent.)
Chicago, September 17.—Two young men, murderers who have been sentenced to death, are now depending on a defense similar to that used in the Franks case to have them from extreme penalties.

Bernard Grant, a 19-year-old boy sentenced to death for complicity in the murder of a policeman here two years ago, who cannot understand why he should not obtain as easy a sentence as Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, is one.

John Meisner, 25-year-old, a veteran of the World War, shell-shocked, once tried and convicted of the murder of a Chicago engineer, a chauffeur, February 6, 1923, is now awaiting a new trial, ordered by the supreme court.

His attorney, James M. Burke, believes that the reasons advanced by Justice Carroll in sending Leopold and Loeb to jail and the plea made by Darrow, their chief counsel, afford him excellent material on which to work to obtain a possible acquittal for his client.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe is much incensed over the fact that attorneys defending various youthful prisoners charged with, or convicted of, serious crimes, are now patterning their efforts to save their clients after those of Clarence Darrow.

The agitation on behalf of Grant and Meisner, whose families are poor, has deeply interested Darrow and he has said that he might take a hand in the grant case in other cases of a similar nature should counsel for the prisoners be willing.

Certainly this boy is entitled to consideration. Darrow said in discussing the plight of Grant, whose family has no means with which to employ an expensive legal staff, "I am willing to go before Governor Small and ask for a commutation of sentence."

"Despite the astonishing propaganda advanced by certain interests, who are trying to blame the state for not getting a death sentence for Leopold and Loeb, this office will ing out the democratic vote at the general election.

In a brief address Mrs. Edgar Alexander stated that the women of the state are giving their solid support to the democratic standard bearer and that she felt justified in promising that the women will do their full part both in making the campaign for funds successful and in getting out the vote in November.

Walter McElreath, prominent Atlanta attorney, who is president of the Georgia Davis-Bryan club, announced that vice presidents have been appointed in each congressional district.

A number of counties already have perfected organizations and are raising funds. He said, and that the dues of the club, which had received reports that Richmond, Montgomery, Tift and Floyd counties had taken similar steps.

$25,000 Is Goal.
It is hoped that the club, raising income of $25,000 in the state. Two slogans have been adopted, it was stated, "A Dollar for Democracy," and "Every Democrat at the Polls November 4."

Others present told of work being done throughout the state, and all expressed great enthusiasm over prospects of the democratic party funds in this state will meet with every success.

Among the prominent Atlantans present were Colonel W. L. Berry, president of the Atlanta Municipal association of active leaders in civic organizations; Governor M. B. Wellborn, of the federal reserve bank; President M. L. Brittain, of the Georgia School of Technology; Eugene R. Black, president of the Atlanta Trust company; Hollins Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain Memorial association and prominent lawyer; J. R. Thornwell, president of the Georgia university; Bolling Jones, chairman of the board of the Fulton National bank; Henry W. Davis, president of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank; W. B. Banks, executive manager of the Citizens & Southern bank; Attorney Charles D. McKim; Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution and former democratic national committeeman; Dr. W. A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools; Mrs. Clifford Walker, Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp, Miss Bessie Kempton, representative in the legislature from Fulton county; Roy Dorsey, solicitor of the criminal court; Atlanta; Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, member of the Atlanta board of education and a delegate to the democratic national convention at New York; W. H. Brittain, president of J. M. High company; Frank Hooper, representative-elect from Fulton county; Mrs. Irene Bell, well-known attorney and secretary of the Davis-Bryan club; Attorney E. E. Pomroy; Harry Moore, manager of the Atlanta freight bureau; Mrs. George P. Dixon; J. Epps Brown, chairman of the board of the Southern Bell Telephone company; E. Walter Tripp, editor of The Atlanta Journal-Constitution; representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who was a sergeant-at-arms at the democratic national convention; John A. Bell, secretary and treasurer of The Atlanta Journal; L. W. "Chip" Roberts, president of L. W. Roberts & Co., well known construction architects and engineers; James R. Gray, vice president of The Atlanta Journal; Roy LeCraw, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; J. B. Conyers, commander of Argonne post, No. 1, American Legion; Walter C. Hendrix, etc.; Senator-elect, Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the state democratic executive committee; and others.

continue to insist that offenders against the law suffer the just penalties the law fixes," declared Crowe. "I do not care to make any specific comment on any case, but I do insist that the state's attorney's office be held not responsible for any court decision which might be construed as wholly inadequate."

YOUTHFUL MURDERER COMMUTED BY SMITH.
New York, September 17.—While Bernard Grant, the gray-haired Chicago boy, anxiously awaited word as to his fate, Mike Jernatowski, 18 years old, an inmate of the Sing Sing prison house, was notified Wednesday that he was too young to die.

Governor Al Smith made Mike a present of his life, when he signed an order for the commutation of his sentence. Mike was to be executed Thursday night for the murder of a woman in a strike riot in Buffalo.

Jernatowski is one year younger than Grant, who not only claims that he is innocent, but also submits that if the Leopold-Loeb boys were too young to die, he also should be spared.

Mrs. Cecile Scheuer, a New York lawyer, was instrumental in winning the commutation for Mike. Governor Smith also commuted the sentence of Francis Marion, of New York city, likewise under sentence of death.

LETTERS TO GOVERNOR OVERWHELM OFFICE.
Springfield, Ill., September 17.—Pleas that Governor Small save Bernard Grant, 19-year-old Chicago boy, convicted to hang for the shooting of a policeman in Chicago, have been coming to the governor's office in such a large volume that a form letter was adopted today to be used in replying to those who seek commutation of Grant's sentence.

Most of the letters come from outside of the state, George Sutton, the chief clerk of the governor's office, said today. The form letter used in replying to the appeals thanks the writers for their interest and assures them that the governor will consider the cases on its merits, if it comes to him for action.

SMALLPOX ALARM GIVEN IN REPORT OF STATE BUREAU
There were 21 deaths in Georgia from smallpox during the first six months of 1924, according to records of the state bureau of vital statistics.

This number is an increase in fatalities from this source and, in the opinion of officials of the state health department, should impress upon the people of the state the necessity of people of the state the necessity of a measure to prevent smallpox for the entire year and in 1922, 21 for the year.

"With the opening of the schools," said today the health department, "the closing of windows in homes and public gathering places as cool weather comes on, an increase in this disease may be expected, with its proportionate increase in the number of fatal cases, unless general vaccination is practiced."

"Now that we have the compulsory school attendance law, a compulsory vaccination regulation should be adopted in all schools. Smallpox is transmitted by contact with the disease. Vaccination is the only preventive measure, and the health department urges a slight reaction which is by no means to be compared to the disease."

PRISONER'S DASH INTO BIG CROWD GAINS FREEDOM
S. W. Todd, alleged violator of the Harrison narcotic act, who escaped from officers Wednesday afternoon as he was being taken to Fulton tower to await trial, had not been apprehended early Thursday morning.

Todd and Allen Dabbs, also charged with violating the narcotic act, were being escorted to the tower by United States Deputy Marshal D. W. Ledford when Todd unexpectedly dashed into the late afternoon crowd at Five Points for several years and then became an operative in cotton mills in various Massachusetts towns.

La. Douglas returned to the trade of bootmaking, rising from journeyman to foreman. In 1923 he started in a small shop of his own. His business developed rapidly and he died the president of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company, a concern which retails its products throughout the country.

Clearwater, Fla., September 17.—Central Pinellas county voted bond issues yesterday aggregating $1,918,000. The bonds were voted by overwhelming majority.

The Clearwater district voted $908,000 for a causeway from the old port of town across the harbor to Clearwater beach and a boulevard across the peninsula to Old Tampa Bay.

The Dunedin district voted $520,000 for new roads and bridges. The Largo district voted $400,000 for new roads and bridges.

HITCH UPON CREDIT TO FRANCE REPORTED
London, September 17.—Negotiations for the renewal of the Morgan & Co. credit, which was hurriedly arranged for France some time ago when the franc began to drop steadily in value, has struck a snag, according to a dispatch to the Financial Times from Paris.

The negotiations are between the Bank of France and the house of Morgan, and it is understood that an agreement has been reached whereby the French institution declared its unwillingness to pay interest on the whole credit and insisted that it should pay interest only on the amount actually used. The Morgan negotiators are said to object to this arrangement.

School Flappers "Fall" for Prince On Visit to Them

Syosset, Long Island, September 17.—Young or old, the flappers all fall for the Prince of Wales. This was demonstrated Wednesday when H. R. H., on another tour of Manhattan, stopped in to look through the Julia Richman high school.

Five hundred of the school's 4,500 girls saw the prince and recognized him by his floppy hat and gray suit. The other 4,000 are so envious that they have ostracized the 500.

"The shortness of the prince astounded me," said one little blonde later, "and he seemed most handsome and ordinary. Oh, boy, how he can wear clothes! He's a dream!"

Wales was almost as embarrassed as some of the girls he met in the halls. When they stopped, awe struck, he blushed furiously.

The royal sightseeing party proceeded also to the American Museum of Natural History. Here H. R. H. saw the famous 10,000-year-old dinosaur eggs and numerous bits of sculpture by Carl Akeley, explorer.

The prince was amused to find among the latter his own image, depicting him as a British officer. He also viewed the death masks of gorillas executed by Akeley.

During his brief visit here, H. R. H. has been sought by more newspapermen than any other visitor in years. After leaving the museum, he evened the score for attention paid him by the press by calling upon and inspecting two New York newspapers.

At The New York Times, Adolph Ochs, publisher, accompanied him on an inspection of the plant, and at The Herald-Tribune, Ogden Reid and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid met him and showed him through this plant also.

He was much interested and set the machinery in motion twice in The Herald-Tribune pressroom.

The prince then played a few sets of squash at the Racquet and Tennis club, and returned to Syosset, where Captain Lascelles, the royal secretary, explained that the program H. R. H. followed during the day was expected to contribute to his ability some day to rule the British empire.

OSTRICH BANQUET FOUND IN STOMACH OF YOUNG GIRL
Saginaw, Mich., September 17.—From the stomach of a 15-year-old girl whose identity is being kept secret at the request of her parents, surgeons at a hospital yesterday removed hundreds of small articles—a mass weighing 3 pounds 14 ounces.

Articles found included stove bolts, safety pins, earrings, watch chains, coins, metal street car tickets, brooches, roofing nails, adhesive tape, buttons and laces. The coins included a dime, two pennies and five quarters. The operating surgeons estimated the total number of objects at more than 1,000.

The girl is not expected to live. Her parents said she had shown few symptoms of stomach trouble.

BRANDON WILL TAKE STUMP FOR DAVIS
Washington, September 16.—Governor Brandon, of Alabama, whose famous "T-w-n-t-y-f-o-u-r" vote for Oscar-r Underwood, gave radio fans their chief laugh out of the democratic national convention, will take the stump spot for John W. Davis.

Beginning October 5, he will unlose his leather lungs in New Jersey, New York and New England.

WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS, NOTED SHOE MAN, DIES
Boston, September 17.—William Lewis Douglas, former governor of Massachusetts, died at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital here early this morning.

The former governor had been seriously ill for the past month, having been operated upon at the hospital three times.

Mr. Douglas was born in Plymouth, Mass., in 1845. After a brief and irregular schooling he started to work pegging shoes. He continued this type of work for several years and then became an operative in cotton mills in various Massachusetts towns.

La. Douglas returned to the trade of bootmaking, rising from journeyman to foreman. In 1878 he started in a small shop of his own. His business developed rapidly and he died the president of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company, a concern which retails its products throughout the country.

Enormous Sums Expended To Enlarge Telephone Service
THE enormous amount of new telephone construction under way in Georgia has made necessary a programme of activity rarely before equalled in the telephone industry.

During the first six months of this year additional equipment, apparatus, cable and telephones have been installed at a cost of approximately $990,869.

There remains to be completed during the balance of this year similar new construction costing approximately $1,220,000.

The new facilities provided in this manner enabled the telephone workers to install 10,964 new telephones during the six month period, resulting in a net gain of 2,917 stations.

To complete such a large amount of work and make such a gain has required continuous effort on the part of the entire telephone organization.

The same energy will be devoted to the new construction work costing $1,220,000 which is now in progress or is to be started during the balance of the year.

Only in this way can the programme be carried out and the telephone needs of the State be supplied.

TWO MEN INJURED IN CAR CRASHES

J. A. Wilson, of Lakewood avenue, and John Bennett, negro, of Lithia Springs, Ga., were injured Wednesday night in two street car accidents.

Neither was seriously hurt, however, and were discharged after their injuries had been treated at local hospitals.

Wilson was hurt when his automobile crashed head-on into an inbound Stewart avenue street car at Stewart avenue and Shelton street, according to reports to power company officials made by Motorist O. B. Wright, who was operating the street car. Wright stated that he saw the impending collision and stopped the car, but that Wilson drove his auto into the car, narrowly escaping serious injury. Wilson was taken to the Atlanta hospital.

Conductor L. J. Cook, in charge of the street car, stated that the engine of the automobile was driven into the trolley by the force of the crash and the machine almost completely demolished.

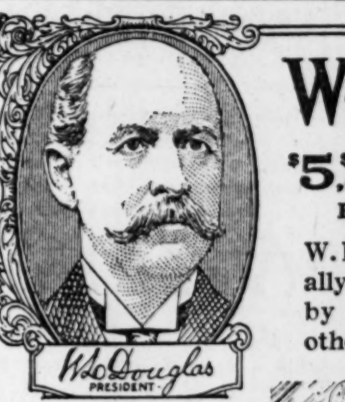

The accident in which Bennett was injured occurred when the wagon in which he was riding was struck by a street car at Tenth and Grady streets. Bennett was somewhat dazed through the air for several feet. Physicians at Grady hospital where he

THE enormous amount of new telephone construction under way in Georgia has made necessary a programme of activity rarely before equalled in the telephone industry.

During the first six months of this year additional equipment, apparatus, cable and telephones have been installed at a cost of approximately $990,869.

There remains to be completed during the balance of this year similar new construction costing approximately $1,220,000.

The new facilities provided in this manner enabled the telephone workers to install 10,964 new telephones during the six month period, resulting in a net gain of 2,917 stations.

To complete such a large amount of work and make such a gain has required continuous effort on the part of the entire telephone organization.

The same energy will be devoted to the new construction work costing $1,220,000 which is now in progress or is to be started during the balance of the year.

Only in this way can the programme be carried out and the telephone needs of the State be supplied.

INMAN DISCUSSES NEGRO HIGH SCHOOL

Frank M. Inman, chairman of the last city bond campaign and chairman of the bond committee on schools, has issued the following statement with reference to one of the features figuring in the campaign for mayor:

Editor Constitution: I am not interested in the political ambitions or differences of either Mr. Key or Mr. Sims in their race for mayor. I am always interested in fair play, and feel that the public should know the truth regarding matters in which they have been grossly misled by Mr. Sims' statements which have served the purpose of representing all the facts, and in stirring up race prejudice and intolerance. It is noticeable that in the newspaper account of Mr. Sims' speeches, his chief qualification for mayor is that Mr. Key signed a contract for a negro junior-senior high school.

In the past few years two campaigns for bonds were defeated by the negro vote because of their lack of confidence in getting any of the benefits thereof. When I was asked to accept the chairmanship of the last bond commission, the program previously adopted and presented to the board of education, of which Mr. Sims was then a member and for which he voted on February 1, 1921, contained this clause: "If the bonds carried a high school for negroes was to be built."

Record Vote for Bonds

This resolution was unanimously carried. After the negroes became convinced that they would be fairly treated in the school building expenditures by promises of Mr. Samuel Lumpkin, chairman of the board of education, Mr. Key, as mayor of the city, W. L. McCullough, of the school board, and myself, as chairman of the bond campaign, as well as scores of other speakers, they voted for the bonds practically unanimously, and the bonds carried by a 96 per cent majority in the largest vote ever polled in the history of Atlanta, and along with them was confirmed a bond commission of 30 representative men and women representing every walk of life and every ward in the city, to supervise and recommend the expenditure of every dollar, and the mayor and council agreed that they should have this power.

The program worked out under expert advice by the school board, bond commission and city council, of which Mr. Sims was a member, called for a negro high school to cost around $300,000. Mr. Sims voted to buy the tract of land on June 18, 1922, and voted to let the contract for the building of a negro junior-senior high school for $254,000 on November 23, 1923.

Mr. Sims knows that by his own vote the negroes were entitled to this school. He knows that all contracts were let as soon as architects finished accepted plans, regardless of whether they were for white or black. He knows that this contract was let before even the building of the white girls' high school, and that on account of the work necessary for the drawings of buildings and work shown, the contract for the Boys' High School was not let until five months later. He knows that all building appropriations had to be cut about 20 per cent to properly divide the funds, on account of the bonds being held up in the courts 18 months before validation, causing the work to be done on a rapidly-advancing material and labor market. He knows that on account of legal proceedings, the first year's issue could not be sold causing a loss of $120,000 that was included in the school program, and that the old school buildings, which stood off at the last, did not bring over half their estimated value.

Statements Misleading. His misleading statements cannot be substantiated, and if he wishes to put the blame on anybody for fulfilling a solemn promise, let it go on the school board, the bond commission, the city council and himself, before giving all the credit to Mr. Key, who as mayor was the last to consider it before signing or vetoing the recommendation of these various bodies.

The records show that Mr. Sims has voted more times, more consistently, and in more different capacities for a negro high school than anyone in the city of Atlanta, and must have added the heavy taxes and electric elevators which were not in the original contract signed by Mr. Key.

Mr. Sims, as mayor should have found out from his engineering department that the spring street viaduct would hold up a 12-ton truck before exciting the entire citizenry with a joke investigation, and that dozens of car loads of materials rejected by the viaduct engineers were accepted by other departments and used in municipal work.

Progressive Program. Mr. Key, as mayor, initiated and carried to a conclusion the greatest progressive program ever attempted in Atlanta, and Mr. Sims should prefer to show something constructive that he has done, instead of trying to tear down the splendid acts of his predecessor.

Up to date Atlanta has expended in white junior and senior high schools $1,500,000, and in negro junior and senior high schools $250,000 and a million more will be spent on the white schools before completion. In Atlanta, I want to ask if Mr. Sims has received the royal treatment that Mr. Sims knows that by his own vote the negroes were entitled to this school.

I was born and have lived in Atlanta all my life, and I am proud to be a citizen of this city, and I am proud to be a member of the bond commission, and other public officials have preferred taking the side of the negro students to our own, and it is an insult to the intelligence of the thousands of mothers and fathers who voted for the passage of the bonds, and I shall do my part to repudiate the same at the polls at each election.

Preliminary plans for a $27,000 church building for Holy Trinity Episcopal parish, Decatur, have been approved by the parish and the vestry authorized to proceed with the financing of the building.

The new church will provide pews for 300 and will be erected on the site of the frame building now in use at the corner of Church street and Trinity place, Decatur. Plans approved at the meeting Tuesday night provide for a thoroughly modern brick church of modified gothic design with a steeple.

Woodbury is chairman of the building committee, and R. P. Christian is chairman of the finance committee. The Rev. C. H. Bascom is the rector. Plans for the organization of the club in the parish were also discussed at the meeting.

operation at a reception recently given by the board of education of College Park in honor of the new superintendent of schools, T. A. Clower, and his faculty. The reception, which was held at the Methodist church, was presided over by E. D. Barrett, president of the board of education, who introduced the speaker, and others taking part in the program.

He was followed by Mayor Bateman, who welcomed the new superintendent and teachers in behalf of the city.

Following the new superintendent, talks were made by Mr. Heslop, athletic director for the school; Miss Lillian Dorough, girls' athletic coach; Miss Cora Gremlin, principal of the high school, and Miss Beulah Hauser, principal of Virginia Avenue school, all of the speakers expressing the hope that this would be the most successful year in the history of College Park schools.

NEGRO MURDERER WILL KNOW FATE EARLY THURSDAY

Governor Clifford Walker had not reached a decision Wednesday night in the case of Will Johnson, Atlanta negro, under sentence to be hanged Friday for the killing of Pete G. Poulos, who was shot and fatally wounded about a year ago in the basement of a downtown restaurant. The governor stated that he would continue consideration of the case Thursday morning and decide whether he would extend executive clemency in the form of commutation of sentence to life imprisonment or let the verdict of the court take its course.

It is alleged that Johnson was one of two burglars who entered the restaurant and that he fired the bullet that killed Poulos. A hearing on the plea of clemency was held in the governor's office Wednesday afternoon. Those who appeared were H. H. Turner and A. S. Groves, attorneys for the defense; Pete S. Poulos, relative of the victim; and Police Officers Sturdivant, Milam and Mallory, who arrested the negro.

According to defense attorneys, Milam told the chief executive that Johnson was the negro who shot him and that Johnson was one of two negroes who were recognized outside the restaurant. Two other negroes tried in connection with the killing are now serving life terms. The prison commission refused to recommend clemency for Johnson after a hearing held about two weeks ago.

REHEARSALS HELD FOR GIRL MODELS OF FASHION SHOW

Rehearsals of girl models who will display the autumn styles in hats, evening gowns and street suits at the Shrine fashion show next week at the auditorium are being held this week. An unusual showing of fall styles has been brought from New York, and they are expected to create much comment when displayed for the first time.

The fashion show will be given every night next week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Besides the fashion display there will be vaudeville, dancing by Nellie Sullivan and her company, and exhibitions of draping and living models by John Johansen, of New York, an expert whose rapid conversion of Spanish shawls and uncut fabrics into striking evening gowns has been a feature of the New York style shows.

The programs of special features will be changed nightly. They will include a drill by the Lion Commandery, Knights Templar; a play by the Shrine band and ball team; a concert by the Shrine band, conducted by Enrico Leide; a concert by the chorists and an exhibition drill by the Arab patrol, elaborately staged. Dancing will follow the regular program each night.

ATLANTA-TO-COAST MAIL EXPEDITED BY USE OF PLANE

Through a new arrangement in the railway mail service mail from Atlanta can be delivered in San Francisco and other cities on the west coast 48 hours after it is posted, it was announced Wednesday by Postmaster Edwin K. Large. The schedule goes into effect Saturday.

An air mail service box has been ordered by Postmaster Large and will be installed some time this week in the vicinity of Five Points, where letters and parcels may be posted as late as 3:50 o'clock in the afternoon and will be rushed to a train leaving Atlanta at 4:25 o'clock, arriving in Chicago in 24 hours and transferred immediately to an airplane and reach San Francisco at 5 o'clock the following afternoon. All mail to be carried by this route must be marked "air service mail."

The cost of mail by the air service route will be eight cents an ounce for each air zone. Since there are two zones between here and San Francisco, the cost of sending a letter to the west coast will be 16 cents, while the cost by the regular route is 10 cents. Special delivery stamps may be placed on the mail to expedite its delivery at its destination, it was stated.

Following is the air schedule from Chicago:

ALLEGED SCHEMER POSTS LARGE BOND FOLLOWING ARREST

Charged with fraudulently obtaining approximately $40,000 from business concerns in several sections of the United States, while operating under four different names, Charles H. Chomsky, of Atlanta, who was arrested Tuesday night by postal inspectors, Wednesday posted bond of $5,000 and was bound over to federal grand jury by Acting United States Commissioner James E. Brown on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

In an outline of the case before Commissioner Brown, Postoffice Inspector R. H. Tomlinson exhibited a mass of correspondence alleged to have been passed between Chomsky and a number of business firms throughout the United States from September, 1921, to March, 1922. According to Inspector Tomlinson, Chomsky operated in Atlanta under the name of M. Miller, the M. Miller Wholesale company, the Atlanta Distributing company and the United Distributing company, purporting to be wholesale grocers.

It was pointed out by Inspector Tomlinson that Chomsky operated by ordering large quantities of merchandise from well-known concerns, procuring them on credit through a good credit rating formerly held by the United Distributing company which he declared had ceased operation before Chomsky assumed the firm name. When the merchandise arrived Inspector Tomlinson said Chomsky removed it to a storehouse and later disposed of it. He said Chomsky had refused to settle any of the debts with the various concerns.

It was announced Wednesday. Retail shops in the Arcade have for some time past been engaged in a cooperative movement to extend and improve the service of the Arcade. ## RECEIVER NAMED FOR BANKER COOK

Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the United States district court, on petition of the War Finance corporation, Wednesday appointed J. H. McClure, of Fairburn, receiver for H. W. Cook, former mayor of Fairburn and prominent landowner and planter of Campbell county, who Monday filed a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities were listed as $433,408.42 and his assets at $13,100.

Mr. McClure's bond was fixed by Judge Sibley at $5,000 and he was empowered to take full control of all Cook's property, including the harvesting of all crops. Mr. McClure previously had been appointed receiver for Cook in the proceedings begun in state courts several months ago when the former Fairburn banker disappeared from home.

Of the 37 different creditors listed in the bankruptcy petition, it was shown that the War Finance corporation was the largest creditor. It being set forth that that corporation held notes for $170,000 signed by Cook in his capacity as director of the Bank of Campbell County, which recently failed.

old daughter of one of his tenants. Cook now faces state charges of kidnapping and irregularity of banking activities and a federal charge of alleged violation of the Mann white slave act, the kidnapping and white slave charges being preferred when Miss Purmont charged that Cook "forced" her to accompany him on the western trip. The charges were preferred in connection with the failure of the Bank of Campbell County, of which Cook was a director.

OGLETHORPE ELECTS WOMAN AS LIBRARIAN

Miss Thomas will succeed Miss Alma Jamieson who has held the position of librarian at Oglethorpe for the past three years and whose retirement was due to ill health.

der the auspices of the league. This has been made quite clear within the last few days.

The United States is a powerful and a resourceful nation but it cannot expect MacDonald and Herriot and other premiers of world powers to leave the one agency to which they are allied and wedded at the mere dictation of this government.

The president's peace plans are running at right angles and are more liable to cause a collision than to promote universal amity and welfare.

GOOD ADVICE.

The late republican president, Warren G. Harding, in his Birmingham address in September, 1921, said:

"I do not want the colored people to be entirely of one party. I wish that both the tradition of the solid democratic south and the tradition of a solidly republican black race might be broken up. Neither political sectionalism nor any system of rigid grouping of the people will, in the long run, prosper our country. I want to see the time come when black and white will regard themselves as full participants of the benefits and duties of American citizenship; when they will vote for democratic candidates if they prefer the democratic policy on tariff, taxation or foreign relations, or what not; and when they will vote the republican ticket for like reasons."

No better advice was ever given the colored people than that given by President Harding in that address.

There are potent signs that the colored voters this year are going to take his advice.

Forward-looking colored people of independent thought, who knew nothing of slavery and feel increasingly less gratitude to the present republican party, are going to vote for the democratic candidates, Davis and Bryan, not only because they are convinced of the sincerity of Mr. Davis' statement that he and the party will be fair to them, but because they now see that the republican party is the Ku Klux Klan party and that its nominee-for-president has not the courage to join Mr. Davis in his protest against secret Klan domination in politics.

The democratic party in the north has welcomed the support of the colored people and has been eminently fair to them.

Our race problem here in the south is being solved by a similar purpose to treat the negro fairly—to see that he is given just treatment and that the good are not made to suffer from the deeds of the bad.

It is time that the colored people should take their political advice from their white neighbors and act with them, and not as Booker Washington once said, be looking for political leadership to men a thousand miles away.

The south is the natural home of the colored people. If we keep them among us and maintain our labor supply, we must see to it that they are given fair treatment.

That being true, with the league functioning stronger than ever before, and with every great power in the world, except the United States, enthusiastically around the council table, one wonders to what "cooperation of nations" the president refers as justifying "as never before" the hope of "great accomplishments in the way of peace."

The fact is the president's greetings to the members of the American Legion, who are overwhelmingly in favor of the foreign policy of the late President Wilson, do not jibe with his party utterances when he is guided more perhaps by politics than by actual peace sentiments.

It is not a fact that the republican party has become so obsessed with its domestic policy of special privileges that it hopes by the use of "some kind of a magic wand to fool the people into believing that it can regulate world affairs and assure world peace on the same theory of special privileges—to itself?

The bare truth is the international policy of this government has been so shrouded in party politics, against the outstanding will of the people, that the other nations of the world have already taken cognizance of the fact and fully made up their minds to get along without the United States, if the United States can get along without them.

The foreign policy of Mr. Davis in clear-cut, well defined, and unmistakable. He believes in international cooperation through the only agency established for that purpose, with every right of national honor and dignity and individual determination reserved to America's own people, but with every cooperation with other nations essential in making war impossible, and in settling international disputes by arbitration.

The peace greetings of President Coolidge to the legion members are mysterious. Certainly they do not comport to his former utterances, and in view of the fact that the president has never shown himself to be a demagogue, the American people will be anxious for a more definite analysis of his meaning in referring to a "cooperation of nations" for world peace.

The world court cannot function except as a part of and under the direct auspices of the league. Nor will the other nations of the world ever join the United States in a better armament conference except under

der the auspices of the league. This has been made quite clear within the last few days.

The United States is a powerful and a resourceful nation but it cannot expect MacDonald and Herriot and other premiers of world powers to leave the one agency to which they are allied and wedded at the mere dictation of this government.

Problems of Brer Williams.

I. I don't dispute de gospel plan—De burdens de saints caried.

But ef Solomon wuz de wisest man How come he got so much married?

II. Ef Moses wuz de meekest man, How come, w'en he hit dat rock wid a club in his han' An' sho' made de water fly?

III. Ef Job wuz de humble, patient one W'en trouble come, low an' high, How come he growed fum sun ter sun 'Till his wife said, 'Go 'long an' die'?

IV. Tarrifyin' problems, 'Till you dunno what ter do, Yit dey all drugged 'long wid de sigh 'An' somehow dey all pulled through!

A Froze Poem to the Weather.

When Editor McIntosh talks about "the weather," he makes the growers, "whose outlook on life keeps their eyes on the ground," sit up and take notice.

"Hasn't it been glorious?" he asks, in his Albany Herald.

"Isn't it glorious still? These are indeed wonderful days and nights. Morning, noon and afternoon, the fatuous blue of the heavens is unclouded by a single cloud, often for days in succession. Late in the day a few fluffy banks of mist float above the horizon, to float for an hour or two like phantom ships on a vast celestial sea, but with the coming of night they vanish, and a star is missing from its appointed place. Now the full September moon makes radiant the east in the early evenings, and never will the world see more sublimely beautiful nights than these. The air is cool and bracing, the golden sunshine warms the very soul of man by day, and the message of every moment seems to be that 'it's good just to be living.'"

Feeding the Birds.

I. I love the birds, winged Arabs of the air, From day to day with them my bread I share.

Whistling upon the threshold of my home, They know the call, and eagerly they come.

From nearby nest and hedge, and from the bread crumbs, picking them with busy beak.

II. Chirping, the sparrows run each other round, To grab big crumbs which luckier birds have found; Sometimes a mockingbird comes from its nest, Or haunts joy, a most welcome guest.

For sparrows fear the automatic jay, Crambs in their beaks, the sparrows fly away.

III. Amused I watch the feasting till it ends, Amused and interested in my friends; I can but love my feathered family, God's creatures all, could otherwise I be?

The mockingbird thanks me whenever it sings, The sparrow too by fluttering its wings.

—CHARLES W. HUBNER.

Time To "Lay Low."

"Since our good wife entered the race for sheriff, and late returns indicate that she has been elected, we have been walking a straight chalk line," says the editor of The Atlanta Banner. "Heretofore we have advocated wives giving husbands 'more rope' as they say, but hanged if we want it now."

The One Safe Way.

"Take the bright side of things and work for reality," says The Cordele Dispatch. "Steady going away at your job in busy times is the thing. There is the joy of living in it."

The Steady Grind.

Let others prophesy, But work, while time is flyin'. Still makes the world-wheels turn.

Says The Thomsville Times-Enterprise: "The man who is too close to take his home paper, often wonders how things escaped him. He probably missed something from the paper from his neighbor that day or week."

THE DARK ROOMS.

Pictures taken by a camera have to be developed in a dark room. If the light strikes them before, they are ruined.

It is in the dark room that these pictures are developed.

And in like manner it is in the dark rooms of life that character and strength are developed.

If we lived in the light all the time, if everything went smoothly and pleasantly all the time,

Paul A. Reid, one of the party, related they were on a fishing expedition in a gasoline launch. The storm descended and they made for land, which they reached only after a hard struggle, heavy seas threatening to swamp the small craft at any moment. After 18 hours they outdrew the storm and made their way up the St. Marks river to St. Marks, where they embarked in their motor cars. None of the party was injured.

MARIETTA PARTY NARROWLY ESCAPES

Marietta, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The Marietta business men who composed the party stranded on the Florida coast in the Gulf of Mexico for 18 hours by the heavy seas Monday, will reach Marietta tomorrow morning.

LOWNDES CROPS ARE NOT DAMAGED

Valdosta, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Beyond badly washed roads throughout Lowndes county and some damage to telephone and power wires in the city, little harm resulted from the storm which swept this section during Monday night and Tuesday. Skies cleared this afternoon and good weather is indicated. Crops have not been materially affected, according to late reports.

ROADS AND BRIDGES DAMAGED IN BROOKS

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—On account of high water and the complete disarrangement of rural telephone lines only meager reports of the storm damage in Brooks county reached here until this afternoon.

The storm, which broke in Quitman late Sunday afternoon, increased in violence during the night and between 8 o'clock Monday morning and 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, 4 to 6 inches of rain had fallen, breaking all local records for the 32 years in which Forecaster A. R. Jones has been on duty in the weather station here.

Creeks and rivers became raging torrents Tuesday morning and many turpentine trees were blown down. The damage has been principally to trees, which have been blown down in many sections of the county, the washing out of bridges and cane and cotton crops. Many fields have been badly washed, and practically all rural telephone communication has been temporarily stopped.

No one was injured, although in several instances houses were crushed by falling timber.

3 NEGRO YOUTHS HELD FOR RIFLING LETTERS IN MAIL

Boysie Williams, Garnett Davis and Will McConnell, young negroes, employed as special delivery boys at the local postoffice, were arrested Wednesday afternoon by postal inspectors and committed to jail until this morning, when they will be given preliminary hearings, before Acting United States Commissioner J. E. Brown on charges of rifling special delivery letters.

The boys, according to inspectors who made the arrests, have for several weeks been engaged in the practice of stealing special delivery letters. Inspectors R. H. Tomlinson, head of the Atlanta division; R. E. Barry, W. B. Brannon, E. C. Ellis, Clyde Fleming and F. H. Shumate, handled the case.

BOIFEUILLET THANKS "80,000 GEORGIANS"

Colonel John T. Boifeuille, defeated in the recent primary for reelection to the public service commission, Wednesday gave out a statement in which he thanked the "80,000 Georgians who honored" him with their support.

Colonel Boifeuille was defeated by O. R. Bennett, of Dodge county. The statement was a member of the commission. I am profoundly grateful to the more than 80,000 Georgians who honored me with their support for nomination to the office of public service commissioner. I always will cherish fond memories and cherish deep appreciation of their confidence in me. When I retire from the commission I will carry with me the consciousness of having performed my duty faithfully, and that never once have I been unmindful of the rights and interests of the people when they were endangered by the unreasonable demands of corporations.

"Through the result of the primary election shows that a large element of the masses were indifferent to my efforts to protect them from excessively high rates and were unappreciative of my consideration of their welfare, and preferred to rate with rich and powerful utility companies in accomplishing my defeat, nevertheless, in the future they will find my desires for their welfare as warm and my hopes for their prosperity as eager as mine. I was a member of the commission. Who can preserve the rights and protect the interests of the masses, when the people themselves abandon them?"

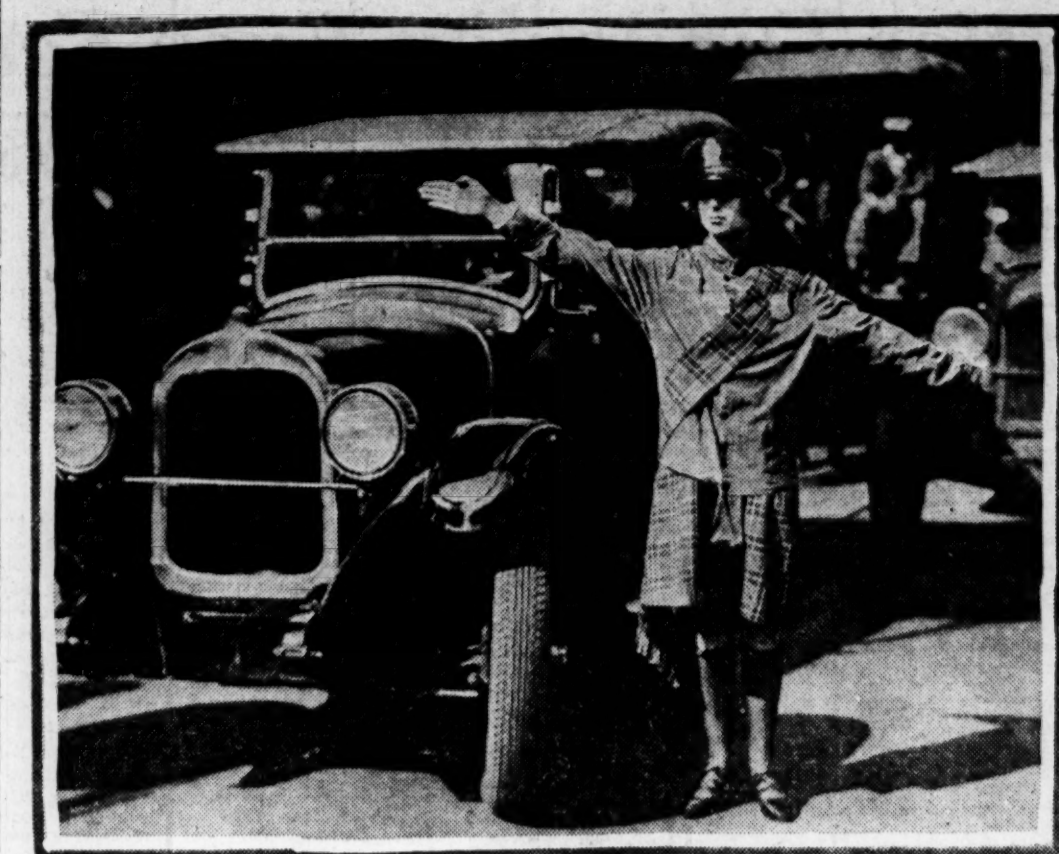

I pray the day will come in Georgia when no man will be so unjustly, falsely and maliciously made the victim of religious intolerance and prejudice as I have been.

FORMER ATLANTAN RESTS IN BIRMINGHAM

Mr. Bumstead was born in Roswell, Ga., in 1878 and was a Spanish-American war veteran. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Miss Willie May Bumstead; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill A. Bumstead; one sister, Miss Bessie Bumstead; and his brothers, W. M. Bumstead and Frank A. Bumstead.

Leading Contestant for Beauty Title Gets Instructions in Directing Traffic

Miss Connie Collette, who is leading in the race for the title of "Miss Atlanta Faire," is shown above directing traffic at the corner of Pryor and Edgewood avenue. Despite the fact that Miss Collette is pointing almost due upward, her instructor is much pleased with her performance, and is very thankful for a few minutes' respite from his arduous duties. Miss Collette is backed in her campaign by almost every member of the police force.

With Miss Connie Collette leading the field in the race for the title of "Miss Atlanta Faire," officials reported Wednesday that more than 500 girls already have enrolled, and only 300 more will be permitted to enter.

The girl who wins the Atlanta title will become a member of the Georgia beauty ballet, a feature of the Atlanta Passing Revue which will be presented during the Southeastern fair.

Rehearsals for the revue began Monday night and will continue until the fair opens. Miss Nell Seigman, ballet director, is in charge of rehearsals. Fred Pfeffer, casting director, is assigning girls to roles as they qualify.

Miss Collette, who leads in the race, holds the position of secretary-treasurer of the Harry Silverman company.

PREACHER FAILS IN SUICIDE EFFORT

Chicago, September 17.—Rev. Leslie Anderson, of St. Joseph, Mich., was found unconscious on a downtown street today, having been struck by an automobile, the police believe. Two blocks away was his automobile in which was pinned several notes, one of which began with: "One who is about to die salutes you." The letter was brought to the county hospital, where it was said he will recover. How he came to be injured he could not say. He said that he left St. Joseph, following a quarrel with his wife, and the "first thing I knew I was in Chicago."

"I found myself out of funds," he continued, "and made several trips to Libertyville in search of employment. Last, I came back. I wrote a letter to my wife in the automobile and placed it in the cushion of the seat. That is the last thing I remember."

"I wanted to die. I thought that was the best way out of my troubles," he continued, "and made several trips to Libertyville in search of employment. Last, I came back. I wrote a letter to my wife in the automobile and placed it in the cushion of the seat. That is the last thing I remember."

The letter to Mrs. Anderson said: "I've canvassed the situation from every angle—God knows I hate to do it, not because I'm afraid, but because of the hurt to you."

JUDGE EXCUSES SELF IN CASE OF SAUNDERS

Memphis, September 17.—Judge J. W. Ross announced today that he would ask another federal judge to sit in United States district court here to act on litigation pending between Clarence Saunders and the Piggly-Wiggly corporation.

Judge Ross announced this decision taken on his own motion, after he had overruled a motion filed by attorneys for Saunders asking that he excuse himself. The motion of Saunders' counsel was presented in connection with an affidavit, which alleged bias and prejudice on the part of the court.

Judge Ross in announcing that another judge would be asked to act, explained that the action was taken under a federal statute which permitted him to take such action voluntarily.

Judge Ross based his decision in disposing of the motion filed by Saunders' attorneys on the question of the legal sufficiency of the allegations as made in the petition as grounds for the motion which he held was not established.

"The question of whether or not the matters set forth in the affidavit are true or false has not been taken into consideration in the conclusions reached," Judge Ross said in his opinion. "Nor is any comment made in that regard, for to do so would be unseemly in the court."

PRISONER SOUGHT TO TAKE SUPPLY OF DOPE TO PEN

When Carl Harbin, who was sentenced Tuesday to serve 15 months on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act, entered the doors of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, it was found that he had come prepared to satisfy his immediate craving for dope.

When he was examined by penitentiary officials it was discovered that he had concealed on his person an ounce and a half of morphine, several narcotic needles and $140 in cash.

Federal agents declared that the case was almost without parallel and stated that they would attempt to have Harbin returned to the United States court to be resentence for the offense.

TREASURY IS LAX, CLAIMS WITNESS

Washington, September 17.—Charges of inefficiency in the treasury department, bond duplication and premature payment of interest coupons were made today by Charles E. Brewer, department of justice attorney before the house committee investigating the bureau of engraving and printing.

Brewer declared not only did he have "positive proof" of the duplication on bonds, but that interest coupons on bonds had been paid in 1920 which were not due until 1926.

"This was done by somebody in the bureau," he said, "and I am positively changing the six to a naught, and passing them through," he added. The witness asserted treasury officials had made repeated efforts to destroy bonds which could be used as proof of duplication and that they had defied an order from President Harding to cease the destruction. The destruction continued, he said, until a number of employees had been removed and Louis A. Hill was appointed director of the bureau.

Brewer said that when Hill told President Harding the treasury department had not stopped destruction of the bonds, the president "grabbed a pad and wrote a note to Mellon ordering the destruction stopped, and it was then stopped."

"In other words Mellon was bent to destroy those bonds," interrupted Representative King (Republican) of Illinois. Duplicate bonds appeared at Boston, Mass., and Noblesville, Ind., Brewer testified, adding that "the only thing treasury officials did was to mark the bonds 'duplicate' and made no investigation."

Miss Hughes Weds Mr. Coart At Lovely Church Ceremony

Of cordial interest to a large number of friends is the marriage of Miss Ruth Hughes and William Coart which was solemnized at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Druid Hills Methodist church in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends, Rev. A. F. Pierce, pastor of the church, officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with handsome palms, ferns and other foliage plants. On each side of the altar were tall white stands artistically graced with pink dahlias and white asters.

Before and during the ceremony a beautiful musical program was rendered by Mrs. James Clyde Withers and Ralph Munson. The bride's chorus from "Lohengrin" was played for the entrance of the bride party and MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" was softly rendered during the ceremony.

The groomsmen were Edward Murrah, Harry Starbird, E. O. Smith and D. L. Morris.

Mrs. Ernest L. Osborne, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and was a lovely afternoon gown of sapphire blue georgette crepe headed in crystals. With this she wore a beautiful picture hat of black velvet trimmed in black satin and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of Columbia roses showered with rosebuds.

The little flower girl was Miss Betty Withers. She was a picture of loveliness, wearing a hand-made frock of cream lace ruffles. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of flowers in the Dresden shades.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, William J. Hughes, and they were joined at the altar by the groom and his best man, Allen W. Clapp.

The bride was radiantly lovely in her going-away gown of midnight blue charadee, modishly fashioned along straight lines and trimmed in sapphire-blue duvetyne and squirrel. Her hat was a smart model of sapphire-blue velvet. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. John Franklin Hughes, mother of the bride, wore a three-piece suit of black satin trimmed in cream lace.

With this she wore a becoming black velvet hat. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. William Coart, mother of the groom, was attired in a becoming gown of midnight blue satin-back crepe and her hat was of dark blue velvet. Her corsage was of Ophelia roses.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left for an extended trip to Niagara Falls and points of interest in Canada and after October 1 will be at home in their apartment in New York city.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. John Franklin Hughes, and is a sister of Mrs. Ernest L. Osborne, John F. Hughes and William J. Hughes. She has always been a popular member of the younger set, her charming personality and gracious manners having won her a host of friends.

Mr. Coart is the son of Mrs. William Coart, of Columbus, Ga. He is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. George Clapp, of Atlanta. ## For the millions who suffer self-poisoning

AUTO-INTOXICATION, or "self-poisoning," is robbing millions of the joy in life which they should have. In some, it shows as a feeling of weariness and lack of ambition. More pronounced cases show constipation, gas, flatulence, loss of "tone," heartburn, headache, sleeplessness, eczema, skin eruptions, dizziness, rheumatism, sallow skin, anemia, bad breath, hardening of arteries, or high blood pressure. Poisons which seep into the blood from the intestines are a cause. They are produced by harmful bacteria which must be destroyed and driven out.

If you are not feeling up to par, try CULTUR-LAC. It is a preparation containing the famous "health bacteria," which destroy dangerous disease germs.

CULTUR-LAC is also a valuable antiseptic for infected wounds or ulcers.

Lovely Girl in Real Life Spends Reel Days as Boy

Photographs by Bangs Studio, New York.

On the left, Miss Jane Stuart, former Atlanta girl, is seen in costume in which she recently appeared in a motion picture taking the part of a masculine character. Miss Stuart is seen on right in regulation girl's attire.

Boys will be boys—and occasionally girls will be girls. Such has been the running of pretty little Miss Jane Stuart all of her 21 years. Finally, Miss Stuart has gained her wish, or rather partially so. She is to be a boy, however, not in real life, but in reel life. For the past year she has taken boy characters in a number of motion pictures requiring such parts. Miss Stuart is a former Atlanta girl, having attended the Atlanta public schools. She moved to New York several years ago with her mother, Mrs. Marjorie S. Stuart, to make her home. Her love for Atlanta grows with her years, for she returns every summer to visit friends and is now the guest of Mrs. E. G. Foreacre at her home on Mr. Lee street.

Speaking of taking the part of a boy, Miss Stuart stated "that it is not difficult for me to act the role of a masculine character, for when a little girl I always preferred marbles to doll babies, and my playmates were always boys. I looked so much like a little boy that my mother even dressed me like one, until I was six years old," said lovely Miss Stuart, "and as I grew older I didn't seem to be as congenial with girls, but was always at ease with the fellows. Then, too," said this young girl, "I've always wanted to be in the business world and earn money and do the kind of job that boys do."

One could not help but wonder how it was possible for such a dainty creature, distinctly feminine in appearance and manner, to possess such masculine ideas and put them to such practical use as Miss Stuart is doing. She told of the small parts she had taken in "West of the Water Tower" with Glenn Hunter and "The Great White Way" with Anita Stewart and "Yolanda" with Marion Davies. As she related her plans and ambitions one could almost vision this charming girl as an adorable little Lord Kauntleroy with his flowing golden curls and courtly manners.

SMALL CHILD BURNED IN TUB OF HOT WATER

TRIAL OF FEDERAL AGENTS IN COURT HERE CONTINUED

After several witnesses had been examined Wednesday, the trial of Graceland Southern and J. C. Johnson, federal prohibition agents, on charges of shooting at another, growing out of an alleged altercation with Lumpkin county officials in May, 1922, the case was continued until today in federal district court here.

This is the first of three cases which resulted from the trouble, the other two being against Sheriff Jim Davis, of Lumpkin county, and his two sons, Bob and Joe, both deputies, who are charged with interfering with federal officers while in discharge of their duties. Trial of these cases will follow the Johnson-Southern trial, it was announced.

In outlining the charges against the federal agents, Attorney Hooper Alexander, who, together with Attorneys Thomas W. Hardwick, Robert McMillan, Lumpkin county solicitor, and Rufus Baker, of Doakson, represent the Davises, and stated that the prosecution would attempt to prove that the shooting of Joe Davis occurred when the Lumpkin county officials tried to arrest the two federal officers while the latter were occupying the deserted Porter Springs hotel, and that Lumpkin officials had been informed that three desperate characters were occupying the hotel.

United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager, representing the defendants, stated that he would attempt to prove that Lumpkin county officials deliberately attacked Southern and Johnson to avenge the alleged act of the ordinary brownie, feathery, which appear entirely surrounding the neck, and extending back in a few instances to the wings.

One of nature's oddities is seen in California almost daily in the form of an English sparrow which is almost solidly white except for a few of the ordinary brownish feathers which appear entirely surrounding the neck, and extending back in a few instances to the wings.

Tomorrow—A Bitter Peace.

INTRA-COASTAL CANAL PLANS TO BE STUDIED

Mrs. F. R. S. Phillips, of Tallahassee, Fla., secretary of the Florida State Canal commission for securing the Atlantic-to-Mississippi canal and the inland waterway from Cumberland sound to the Mississippi river, was in Atlanta Wednesday en route to Tallahassee from Indianapolis, and was in conference with Governor Clifford Walker, Secretary of State S. G. McLendon and J. E. McCrory, chairman of the Georgia Canal commission, to discuss with Georgia officials plans for the proposed canal.

The two state commissions were created in 1921 by the Georgia and Florida legislatures for the purpose of pushing the proposition of securing this canal, which will connect the Atlantic intra-coastal waterway with the Mississippi river and the gulf intra-coastal waterway and the Rio Grande.

Mrs. Phillips, who is returning to Florida from Indianapolis, where she was in charge of a publicity booth at the Indiana state fair in the interest of the canal project, was given assurance of the Georgia officials with whom she conferred that this state would do all in its power to have the canal constructed. Chairman McCrory, of the Georgia canal commission, told Mrs. Phillips that he thought it would be possible to have the canal project given a place on the program of the Pan-American Commercial congress, which will be held in Atlanta October 1-4, for endorsement by the congress.

The bill now pending in the national congress, which was introduced by Representative Clark, of Florida, and favorably reported by the house committee on railways and canals, calls for a survey to be made by government engineers of the proposed canal and a report made to congress of the findings. The bill will come up for consideration at the next congress and is being strongly advocated by the Georgia and Florida canal commissions.

The canal, it secured, would be used for barges only and would extend from Cumberland sound to the Atlantic coast across the states of Georgia and Florida to the Gulf of Mexico, thence to the Mississippi river. It would be of tremendous commercial value to the states of Georgia and Florida, it is claimed.

Now Frankly Isn't It Poor Judgment to Pay For Something That You Do Not Get?

—this is precisely what you do when you PAY CASH in a store that would charge your purchase and carry it for thirty or sixty days.

—you pay the same prices as the customer who gets the benefit of paying later. In other words you are made the "goat" — you help pay the extra overhead for the credit extended and the losses from bad accounts without getting a thing in return. Think this over!

When you pay cash, patronize a CASH STORE. Goodness knows you pay enough at best without being taxed for something you do not get. For twenty-nine years we have been selling dependable merchandise for strictly cash. If you are not already familiar with our values, you will be agreeably surprised at the difference in our prices and those of the uptown stores.

It's never too late to mend. We should like nothing better than an opportunity to help start you on the road to real economy.

We are now showing fine assortments of the new merchandise for Fall — particularly in Women's Wear and Millinery. Our Second Floor is given over to these lines—flooded with daylight and displays conveniently arranged—shopping here is a real pleasure!

Red Riding Hood

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.
Mrs. Morgan Schuyler, one of New York's leading philanthropic and social lights, is answered by a girl evidently of birth and breeding. In spite of the fact that she admits a desire to hide her identity, Mrs. Schuyler accepts her on trust and tags her with the name of Hope Emerson. Mrs. Schuyler's family consists of her mother, Mrs. Van Dorn, a young brother, Jim Van Dorn, and an older brother, Bertie, who is always away but whose room is always kept ready for him.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A COLLISION.

Mrs. Schuyler heaved herself up from her bed like some submarine creature emerging from a pink sea. "Now you may trot off to your room and change while I'm in the tub," she suggested as she moved toward the bathroom door. "Never mind the telephone. It's been quiet so long I'm hoping it's out of order."

She left the room on this optimistic expression, and the next moment the girl heard the sound of water running into the tub. For a time she remained where she was, looking around and smiling to herself over the sharp contrast between Mrs. Morgan Schuyler, head of her household, and Mrs. Morgan Schuyler, philanthropist and public worker. She knew, because she had often seen her and read of her, that Mrs. Schuyler's public appearances were characterized by the utmost dignity and decorum of dress and manner. Her platform costumes were rich and beautifully made, but quiet. She kept to dark colors and abjured jewelry. At home, however, it was clear that she indulged a riotous passion for pink. Her room looked like the expression of a school girl's dream of beauty. The wall paper was pink and white. White wicker furniture was covered with white chintz on which fat pink cupids gambled among fat pink roses. The articles on the toilet table were ivory and coral. On a white velvet rug pink roses apologetically huddled together, as if they realized that there were too many of them. The chintz curtains were like the chintz coverings, and on the floor lay several flamboyant pink foot cushions as mute but persistent invitations to disaster. Hope afterwards learned that old Mrs. Van Dorn tripped over one almost every time she entered her daughter's room. The furniture was ivory toned with a painted pink rose or a cupid wherever there was space for one.

There was an impact.

Pushed one jot further in its decorative scheme, and with a touch of incense and a few cigaret stubs lying around, the room might have been the chosen bower of a bobbed-haired young thing of the chorus. Its immaculate cleanliness saved it from this suggestion, and the bracing November air that blew in through the open transoms of its windows.

As the reflection touched her mind the girl who had just been named Hope Emerson continued to inspect her surroundings with a half smile. There had been a time, not long ago, when she feared she could never smile again. Yet now her unconquerable youth was whispering that the outer world was beautiful and that this inner world was amusing and that she had an addition to her income and that Mrs. Morgan Schuyler was an amazingly good sort, and would be a considerable employer of the type one could respect and like, despite her cupids, her roses and her other little eccentricities. Her prophecy came back: "Whatever your trouble is, you're coming through it triumphantly."

The new employee knew better. She knew that such trouble as hers was the sort one does not come through. One simply endures it to the breaking point. She knew that if she had been able to confide in Mrs. Schuyler the latter, as a woman of the world and a clear thinker, would be forced to admit that she was in a cul de sac from which there was no escape. All this being so, Hope smiled down at the pink roses on the white velvet carpet. The sense of humor she had feared was dead had recently stirred and awakened. Its revival was almost as wonderful as the finding of this supplementary work, almost as wonderful as the conviction that, for the time at least, life was again endurable. Very well. She would live in today, calling even her thoughts together and keeping them safely huddled under the wings of the present.

From an upper post of the painted bedstead a fat pink cupid faced her with the impudence of cupids. As if to make him a witness to her resolution, she nodded.

"That's it," she murmured. "I must never think of tomorrow." A sound of wheezing and blowing in the bathroom suggested that the ablutions of Mrs. Schuyler were approaching their high water mark. Hope remembered her most recent instructions, but she remained where she was. She had abruptly realized that she had no idea how to find the clean little room with the fetching view of the elevated railroad to which her mistress had commended her attention, and she further recalled that lady's expressed objection to being shouted at through the bathroom door. There remained only one procedure. She must start on a modest voyage of discovery, and with any kind of luck she would bring up in her future haven.

She was still holding her coat, and she had already taken off the toque. Draping the former over her left arm and with the hat in her left hand, she opened the door leading from the pink bedroom into the central hall of the apartment. She thought she was moving sedately, but it became clear that she had been going through space with a rush, and that something had approached from the opposite direction with the same impetuosity. There was an impact, followed by two sharp exclamations. The next instant Miss Emerson found herself reposing on the breast of a young man, who not only caught her as she tottered from the force of the shock but who also, with an expression of great content, continued to hold her firmly in both arms. It was on this restful tableau that the round, blue eyes of Mrs. Schuyler fell when, lured by the sounds of the encounter, she opened her bathroom door and guardedly thrust her blonde head around the side of it.

The young man was the first to recover his presence of mind, if indeed he had lost it. He regretfully loosened the clasp of his arms in response to the lady's obvious desire to leave her shelter.

"By Jove," he warmly exclaimed, "I'm most awfully sorry! I hope I haven't hurt you. You see, I'd no idea there was anyone in the room but my sister Maud, and her movements are as audible as a truck's."

Pained by this comment, his sister Maud withdrew her head and closed the bathroom door. What she had to say, the crisp snap of the closing implied, could be expressed later, and would be. On the threshold of the other door the two young persons who had collided still confronted each other, dazed but highly observant.

"Just my luck," Van Dorn pensively remarked, "to knock your breath out of you when all I wanted to do was to knock out Maud's. I was giving an imitation of a rising young broker in a hurry, for her special benefit."

"It was a good one," his victim admitted with an irrepressible smile. He decided that her smile was as wonderful as the rest of her, probably because her upper lip was short and there was an especially attractive twist to it, as if it insisted on smiling against the wish of its owner. This made the smile almost a compliment; but it was a short lived affair, for already it had perished. She thanked him seriously as he bent and retrieved a jet pin the recent jar had dislodged from her black hair.

"I don't know why you should thank me," he gloomily admitted, "after what I've done. I've even wrecked a perfectly good coiffure." The words served their purpose. They checked her departure and sent her hand to her hair.

"O, is it wrecked, really?" she apprehensively exclaimed. She was certainly lovely and exquisitely feminine—and thus set apart from most of Maud's women callers who didn't know the difference between a coiffure and a doughnut. The comparison was the young man's, and under its influence and that of a sudden inspiration his face brightened.

"I think I could straighten it, if you'll let me try," he urgently suggested.

The new employee sighed. She had been in the place half an hour, and already the time had come to snub James Van Dorn.

"No, thanks," she said. "I won't trouble you. I'm just going to my room."

He stared interestedly.

"Your room?" he repeated. This was almost too good to be true.

"My room, a clean little place with a fetching view of the elevated railroad. You see—she dropped her brown eyes, that he might not catch the glint in them—"In the new maid."

LEGION WILL CONVENE IN OMAHA NEXT YEAR

St. Paul, Minn., September 17.—Omaha was selected as the 1925 convention city of the American Legion at today's session of the sixth annual convention here.

The unofficial vote was Omaha 504 and Fort Worth 455.

Selection of Omaha came after a hot contest between the Nebraska and Texas cities, the only two presented to the convention as eligible by the committee on time and place.

The convention also accepted the report of the time and place committee recommending acceptance of Philadelphia's invitation for the 1926 convention.

When Commander Quinn introduced former Judge K. M. Landis "as a man who had given him the counsel of a father in the past year," a demonstration followed. A parade to the platform was started and soon every state was grouped about the judge.

Judge Landis urged jail sentences for those who fail to vote as an "enough" to bring the electorate to the polls.

With characteristic postures and gestures he assailed those who are spreading "villainous propaganda" against the American Legion "throughout the United States."

He declared he could not talk to the legion on the constitution, his assigned subject, for "had it not been for what the organization represented by this gathering had done, there would not have been any constitution of the United States."

Referring to part taken by the legion in caring for its own disabled veterans the speaker said: "Had it not been the legion, the United States would not even yet have placed its foot on the threshold of the problem of hospitalization. And so with rehabilitation and other soldiers' problems."

WALL STREET ODDS FAVOR PRESIDENT

New York, September 17.—Three to one are the Wall street betting odds in favor of President Coolidge's election, and 1 to 3 1/2 are the odds against the other two candidates.

The Wall street firm of W. L. Darnell & Co., has just placed a bet of $10,000 to $4,000, or at odds of 2 to 1, that John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, will defeat Senator La Follette, farmer-labor candidate.

An additional $30,000 has been deposited with the Darnell firm to bet the same way. The firm also has $30,000 that says, at 8 to 1 odds, that President Coolidge will be re-elected.

ODD FELLOWS VOTE TO LOWER AGE LIMIT

Jacksonville, Fla., September 17.—Delegates to the 100th annual session of the sovereign grand lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows today voted to amend the constitution of the organization to lower the age for admission to the order from 21 years to 18. The action today followed considerable debate on the question at the session yesterday.

A parade through the downtown streets, in which more than 5,000 Odd Fellows and Rebekahs took part, was held this afternoon.

It must be built by men and women. They can be educated and trained, but success depends on the individual plus team-work.

There are some points that will help and one is to deal with dependable people. It saves time, trouble and expense. Besides that, it helps your reputation.

Another rule is to make your work so good that everybody will want it. That is a high mark, but not too high. High endeavor not only improves the quality of your work, but increases your self respect and the world's respect for you.

These principles apply with special force to construction, in which man's work is tested by the elements. It must be good to remain respectable.

The number of men who do business on these principles is increasing and it is more and more a privilege to deal with them. They make business worth while.

Decision of Moving Board Headquarters From Savannah Held

Washington, September 17.—(Special.)—The shipping board, at meeting Wednesday, agreed to withhold a tentative decision establishing its headquarters on the south Atlantic coast at Charleston, S. C., on representations from a delegation from Georgia, which made a plea on behalf of Savannah.

Among those who appeared were Gordon Saussey, of Savannah; Charles G. Edwards, of Savannah, congressman-elect; and Arthur Gordon, of Augusta, president of the Augusta Cotton exchange. They were accompanied to the shipping board by Senator Harris, of Georgia.

The delegation agreed to form an American shipping company at Savannah, upon recommendation from the shipping board, which agreed to withhold its decision on the south Atlantic headquarters until this company was organized.

Under regulations of the shipping board, its affairs in such a case are handled by a shipping corporation, which is purely an American concern. Charleston already has such an organization, and was, therefore, the preferred site for a final decision until the 8th annual board has been organized.

A request that appropriations, providing for a deeper harbor at Savannah, be included in the recommendations of the rivers and harbors commission of the war department, was made Wednesday by Senator Harris and congressman-elect Edwards, appearing before army engineers. They were assured that the request would be in full consideration.

BENEFIT DELAYED. WIDOW IS GIVEN $2,000 BY BUTLER

Philadelphia, Pa., September 17.—Rather than disappoint the widow of a policeman who had been assured payment of a death benefit from the proceeds of a police baseball game today, Director of Public Safety Butler presented her with $2,000 out of his own pocket when rain caused the postponement of the game with New York policemen.

According to the director, Mrs. Butler suggested the gift, made from her general fund, now using this column of the Constitution for all such notices. Every lodge member in Atlanta looks to this column for all calls and any meeting notice published in the morning has time to reach every member before night. It is the surest and the cheapest way!

MASONS REAFFIRM NON-PARTICIPATION IN CONTROVERSIES

Boston, September 17.—The supreme council, 32d degree, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the northern Masonic jurisdiction of the United States, through a statement from its most eminent grand commander, Leon M. Abbot, has reaffirmed its policy of non-participation in religious and political controversies.

The statement was read at a session officially closing the whole Masonic order against such movements as the Ku Klux Klan. At its last annual meeting, the supreme council adopted a resolution defining its attitude toward this matter.

It is expressly stipulated that individual members of the order are not bound and may participate in any political or religious activities that appeal to them.

$500,000 FUND ASKED FOR STRANDED JEWS

New York, September 17.—Ten thousand Jews, bearing American consular visas and tickets calling for trans-Atlantic transportation, are stranded in Cuban, German, English, Dutch and Rumanian ports, an emergency committee headed by Louis Marshall and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, asserted today in appealing for a $500,000 fund for the relief of the refugees.

These people are the victims of the United States immigration laws, in some cases have been held in foreign ports for more than a year. Penniless after their long detention, they are facing starvation, the announcement continued.

The emergency committee is seeking information on immigration conditions in Palestine, Mexico, the South American republics, Australia and South Africa in hope that a home may be found for the refugees.

Naturalized American Arrested for Robbing Freighter of Liquor

Paris, September 17.—Jeanne Max Phaff, a naturalized American, born in Germany, was arrested here today charged with piracy in holding up the French freighter Mulhouse off the Atlantic coast of the United States in July and robbing her of a cargo of more than 1,000 cases of champagne and liquor.

The owners of the Mulhouse employed private detectives, who said they obtained traces of the alleged pirate gang through bootleggers in the United States. They finally discovered the whereabouts of Phaff in London and followed him to Antwerp, Brussels and Paris.

Phaff came here Sunday and was taken into custody yesterday by the detective. The police, however, decided not to make formal charges until orders had been received from the maritime tribunal of Brast with which the owners filed complaint after the Mulhouse had been looted.

21 BODIES TAKEN FROM COAL MINE; 14 MORE LOCATED

Kemmerer, Wyo., September 17.—Twenty-one bodies of miners and company employees, trapped under ground by an explosion at Sublet Mine No. 5 Tuesday, lay side by side in a morgue here Wednesday night.

Fourteen more bodies were located by rescue workers late in the afternoon and probably will be brought to the surface some time during the night, company officials said.

Although unofficial reports had it that 51 men were in the mine at the time of the blast, officials said that there were only 47.
